A message from the Governor, by A. P. Field, Esq. Secretary of State, was received and read, and is as follows:

*Fellow-Citizens of the Senate,
and House of Representatives:*

On retiring from office, were I to consult my own feelings, I should simply take leave of you and my fellow citizens, generally, by an attempt to express that gratitude which I sincerely and most deeply feel, for the generous confidence so repeatedly reposed in me, and by offering an apology for the unsatisfactory manner, to myself, at least, in which I have discharged its high and responsible duties, and leave all suggestions for your deliberations to my worthy successor, in whose abilities and disposition to serve the State faithfully and efficiently, I have, and I doubt not you all have, the fullest confidence. But custom and duty require a different course. I therefore proceed to lay before you, very briefly, my views on several subjects that will probably claim a share of your deliberations during the present session.

In relation to the impolicy of our system of Internal Improvement, my mind has undergone no change as expressed in my objection to the passage of the act, and my recommendation of its repeal at the called session of July, 1837. Indeed, if I could then have doubted the evils threatened by this measure, which I did not, experience has now sufficiently shown that all my objections to it must in time be fully realized; and I doubt not, from facts observable by all, that many of those who have most zealously supported the system, begin already to question its propriety. How to correct this mistake, and get rid of the evils with which we are threatened by this improvident act, without too great a sacrifice of public or private interests, is a subject which should, and I doubt not, will occupy your serious and patriotic deliberations, in the proper adjustment of which all should rise above every narrow and selfish view, looking alone to the interest and prosperity of the whole State. That there should have been many mistakes committed, and much waste of public money, in conducting a system of internal improvements on so large a scale, in a country almost entirely destitute of skill and experience in such works, was to have been expected. But I confess they have occurred to an extent never anticipated by myself—and whether by mistake or design, it is very manifest that large sums have been squandered on objects of little or no general utility, and in some cases to the detriment of the public interest. My chief objections to the passage of this bill, it will be remembered, were the effects I anticipated it would have on the purity of elections, and the action of the Legislature. The short time that has elapsed has fully verified the soundness of those objections; and when the whole system shall have been completed, and thousands of officers, engineers, agents and laborers, shall have the same common interest in sustaining or opposing any measure which may affect their pay or pecuniary interests, they will not only, as was the case at the last called session, have representatives in your Legislature, but will be here in numbers sufficient, openly or covertly, legally or illegally, to control its action. The want of economy, and the deleterious effect of such a system, owned, controlled and carried on by the State, are great and insurmountable objections to it; but, in my opinion, not so great, because not of such duration, as the power it confers on the State Government, through its numerous officers and dependants, to influence elections and legislation.

Government in the United States was instituted for the benefit of the whole people—each citizen forming an independent pillar, and all equally supporting the grand fabric, which is the Constitution and laws made by their own hands. The officers created to administer its affairs require no patronage, or power, to sustain their authority or influence over the people, and should have no more given them than is indispensably necessary to a just and efficient discharge of their official duties. To confer a greater power than this on any office or department, of a republican or democratic government, is a violation of good sense and sound discretion—an error which it is feared may prove the destruction of our free and happy institutions. Recent events, even in our own country, have shown that power is never satiated, and confirms the experience of other times, that it “is gradually stealing from the many to the few.” If, therefore, we would preserve our liberties, it should become a fixed principle, that our Government should be clothed with no other authority than is necessary to make, administer and execute the laws. It should have nothing to do with carrying on large plans of Internal Improvement, or any other schemes, which shall of necessity confer upon it, or any of its departments, powers and duties better suited to a bloated monarchy than a plain republican people. I therefore again recommend that all such works of improvement be left in the hands of the citizens of the State, or to corporations created by law; and that the Government have as little to do with them as possible, except to encourage all such undertakings by an equal and liberal subscription for their stock.

For the accomplishment of those, and all objects which require the combination of capital, I would recommend the passage of a general incorporation act, so that the funds belonging to widows and orphans, the imbecile and aged, who are unable to employ them in business, may have the opportunity of using them for the improvement of the country, and thereby receive advantage, while they confer a benefit on the whole community. I would recommend this measure for the further reason that, by limiting the number of appointments, it will prove an antidote to the schemes of those designing politicians who are making war upon every corporation for the purpose of concentrating all power in the hands of Government.

Should it be thought best, however, to continue the present system of Internal Improvement, I would respectfully suggest the propriety of making it the duty of the Engineer to survey and locate all roads, subject to the revision of the Board of Public Works, and not to make such survey and location in obedience to the dictation of any member of the Board; and, also, to require the Engineers to be appointed by sanction of the Board, and not to be removed without its consent, except in cases where their services may not be required. Also, of providing for some just, equal, and uniform mode of obtaining the right of way on the several proposed railroads, which might be accomplished by the appointment of three Commissioners for each district; also, so to amend the present act as to enable the courts to punish offences committed under it.

The United States Executive, following the example of the arbitrary governments of the old world, has become a mere political or electioneering establishment, to furnish places, out of which their partizan friends can make fortunes—an influence which is now sweeping every thing within its vortex; making the most important measures, as well as the most trifling elections of the States, to turn upon national politics. The great and growing patronage and power of the Executive Department of the National Government now enable the President to confer higher offices with greater honors and pay, with a single exception, than are in the gift of the people themselves. Governors and ex-Governors, Senators and Representatives in Congress, solicit, and feel honored by receiving, second-rate appointments under it. This patronage has been, and is now, notoriously used to influence State elections, and secure supporters for the late and present administration—a power that is becoming more and more extensive every day. At first, the public officers were but a few hundred; now, they number many thousands. They were formerly appointed for their qualifications to serve the public—they are now appointed to obey and serve their party leaders. Formerly, they relied upon their good conduct and fidelity to the public, for continuance in office; now their subservience to “the party” is the most important requisite.

Formerly, the public officers, acting under regulations of law alone, were checks upon one another; now, under the dictation of the Government, they act as a “unit;” and it is notorious that many of the subordinate collectors who are active supporters of the party, have squandered the public money, with the perfect knowledge of the Executive; and those officers designed by law to hold them in check, in place of doing their duty, have concealed the facts from the people under circumstances which leave no doubt of the motive. Formerly the public officers were not permitted to become active politicians, for the purpose of influencing elections in the States, and were left to vote and speak like freemen; now, from the President down, they are all active politicians, wielding the influence of office, the power of money and the press to sustain themselves. Under the proscriptive and arbitrary policy of the Executive Government, the public officer loses his independence of action and of speech, the most essential attribute of liberty. It is a maxim, that he who enslaves a citizen is a tyrant, and if so, those who permit it, cannot long expect to retain the name of freemen. If the policy of this administration were to stop here, it would not be surprising to hear the deep murmuring of the people from every quarter against the abuse of its power and patronage.

But, in addition to this, which of itself is almost too much for the people, the same administration has continued, for about nine or ten years, one uniform grasp after additional patronage; (a thing which belongs only to ambitious tyrants, to reward the servility of their dependants; a word and principle which should be scowled by every freeman in our country,) until it has now become exceedingly doubtful whether they are not able to sustain themselves in authority, in defiance of the people. How to remedy those evils, and quiet their murmurings and apprehensions, should be a serious subject of enquiry with you and every reflecting citizen in our country, without distinction of party; for, when the ocean heaves, there is no certainty whose bark will be able to ride successfully upon its troubled waves. We have seen that Congress, left to its own action, is not to be relied upon. For its members are too deeply interested in sustaining and increasing a patronage, which hundreds of them look to for the consummation of their highest ambition. To such a degree is this the fact, that it has become a common occurrence for members of Congress to make their places mere stepping stones to higher office; which is now done with perfect assurance, if by servility to the Executive, or by the abandonment of principle and duty, they lose their popularity at home, that the Government will take care of them. To use the popular phrase, the President never neglects those who are crippled in his service.

With such evidences before me, I can see no hope of reform, but for the Legislatures of the different States to instruct their Senators, and the people their Representatives in Congress, to vote for all measures to reduce the Executive patronage, the receipts and expenditures of Government, and to prohibit the removal of public officers on party grounds, or for any cause without assigning a reason to the Senate for such removal: to prohibit members of Congress from receiving appointments from the Executive of the United States for at least two years after the expiration of the time for which they may have been elected; and to prohibit, under severe penalties, any officer of the United States Government from persuading, bribing or otherwise influencing voters at elections; from conducting a newspaper press; from bribing or influencing any editor of a paper to support any political party, or contributing money for either of the before named purposes: those powers form the great lever with which the Executive is now controlling the politics and elections of the whole country. Correct them, and all other abuses, great as they are, will become comparatively harmless; and the Government, which now, like a mighty river, has overflowed the whole land, will sink quietly within its limits, and aspiring men will once more rely upon patriotism, virtue, and talents, to secure those places of honor which every citizen of our country should, and under such circumstances would, become ambitious to receive.

The work on the Illinois and Michigan canal has progressed as rapidly as could have been expected. $44,292 have been received by the Canal Commissioners on account of lots and lands sold. $500,000 of State bonds were sold in 1836 and 1837, in New York at 5 per cent. premium;

and $500,000 have recently been sold in this State to the State Bank of Illinois at par; of which sums, all except $10,591 61, have been paid over to the Canal Commissioners, which balance remains on deposit in the State Bank of Illinois, subject to the order of my successor. In anticipation of the Commissioners' report, which I am informed will not be ready before the 20th instant, I am authorized to say that all of the summit division lying between Chicago and Lockport, all of the lower division extending to La Salle from Marseilles, and that part of the middle division from Lockport to Dresden, are under contract, together with all locks, aqueducts, dams, culverts, &c., leaving only that part of the line (23 miles) between Dresden and Marseilles yet to be let; composed chiefly of light and cheap work. The work under contract will amount to about seven and a half millions, and is progressing well. Several sections on the lower division are completed, and all others have so far progressed as to establish their entire practicability, and show that they will be finished at less than the original estimates of the board. The gross expenditures are about $1,400,000, the principal part of which have been made in the last year. With proper appropriations, the board are confident that the canal can be finished early in the summer of 1844, and they are just as confident that the lands, if not passed into market, will build the canal. Provision for further means to carry on this work will be a subject for your early consideration, and I most earnestly recommend it to your fostering care. Considering the canal now, as I ever have considered it, a national highway, to be kept as free as the waters of the Mississippi or St. Lawrence, and that the nation stands pledged to furnish the entire means for its completion, I would again recommend that such additional loans be made as may be required for immediate purposes, to be replaced out of the sale of lands, and if the lands already granted shall not produce a fund sufficient to make the canal, to apply to Congress for further appropriations; and with this view I would again respectfully suggest the importance of keeping Congress and the Executive branch of the General Government regularly informed of the progress and expenses of the work, as it will be seen by reference to a report made by the unanimous vote of the standing committee on roads and canals, in the House of Representatives in Congress, on the 25th of June, 1834, on an application for further aid to enable the State of Illinois to construct a steamboat canal from lake Michigan to the Illinois river, and from the articles of cession and the ordinance of 1787, Congress and the nation stand committed to furnish the entire means for completing this canal. (See Doc. No. 356.) Said report concludes as follows:

"For the reason that no estimates have been made of the probable cost of this work, further aid from the United States towards the construction of this interesting communication, should be deferred till such an examination and estimates be made, and a plan adopted by the State of Illinois for construction of its necessary works. When the plan shall have been fixed and presented to the consideration of Congress, there can be no doubt that, if approved by them, additional aid will be afforded to an enterprise of such national importance."

The Banks of our State, as well as those in most of our sister States, since the rejection of the Government Sub-Treasury scheme by Congress, have resumed specie payments, and are fully entitled to the public applause and confidence they are now enjoying, for the prudence and judgment they have used in sustaining themselves, under difficulties of so threatening a nature. The subjects of Banking and Credit are now undergoing a severe scrutiny in this country; and it is but reasonable to suppose that such investigation, though obscured by party prejudice, may result in something beneficial to our country; and while the public mind is thus engaged, I beg leave to present for your consideration a proposition submitted in my message in 1836, the object of which (without touching the subject of Banking now in existence, or that of a National Currency) was, if practicable, to increase the investment of capital in our State, and at the same time to produce a sound and efficient credit system, by the State furnishing (without becoming in anywise responsible for their payment,) scrip or notes of a uniform description for the full amount of all sums which any individual or companies may actually invest in loans at 6 per cent. for five or more years, to be secured by mortgage on real estate; which scrip or notes to contain on their face, authentic evidence of the funds pledged for their redemption, and to be used at the discretion of the holder, as a circulating medium, and redeemable in specie according to promise, under heavy penalties, and the mortgaged premises to be held bound for their ultimate payment. I doubt not, a system may be formed by an act of this kind, with proper details, which would, by making this scrip an available stock, as well as to answer for a circulating medium, induce capitalists and others holding money in or out of the State to loan it to our citizens for a long period, at low rates of interest, and at the same time furnish a system of credit, based upon the most perfect possible security—which would invite capitalists from abroad—put all the dormant funds now in the country into active use, and at once, for all practical purposes, double the amount thus invested, and so classify the monetary operations of the State as to furnish permanent loans to the farmer and mechanic for improvement, and the temporary use of money to the merchant and trader.

Reclaiming the wet and overflowed lands of the river bottoms of this State, especially the Mississippi, Illinois and Wabash, for the purpose of promoting health and reducing them to cultivation, is a subject of much interest, and one that I would recommend to your consideration; at least so far as to solicit the aid of Congress, either by appropriation or a donation of the unsold lands within, and adjoining to, said bottoms, to assist in accomplishing the work, in which the United States have an equal interest with this State. The rapidly increasing commerce on those rivers requires an immediate improvement of their channels; and as the United States are bound to keep them open, by an agreement with Virginia, in the articles of cession, and with the Governments of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, in the following article of the ordinance of 1787, which was required to be made a part of the constitution of those States; to wit: "ARTICLE 4. The navigation of the waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence, and the carrying places between the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said territory as to the citizens of the United States and those of any other States that may be admitted into the confederacy, without any tax, impost or duty therefor;" and as those two rivers, the Wabash and Illinois, are recognized to be the waters alluded to, and the United States have provided for improving the carrying places between them and the lakes, there can be no doubt, when properly informed of the importance and necessity of such improvements, that the United States Government will act in good faith, and immediately cause every obstruction to be removed from their channels. I would therefore recommend that the subject be laid before Congress at its present session.

The passage of an efficient road law, which would not only open and improve, but render the public highways permanent and straight, is greatly desired, and would be a measure of general utility. A mineralogical and agricultural survey of the State could not but be attended with the most favorable results; and I doubt not, the former would develop new sources of wealth to our enterprising citizens, while the latter would exhibit a variety of valuable productions, which our best informed farmers have no knowledge that either our climate or infant settlement are capable of producing.

A well arranged and properly disciplined Militia gives to a free people the confidence of a strong man;—if neglected, confusion and dismay will be the consequence at every appearance of danger. Too much attention, therefore, cannot be bestowed upon this subject, and I would suggest the propriety of offering additional inducements for raising and equipping independent companies, and of requiring, under the severest penalties, the strict performance of military duty by every qualified citizen of a suitable age. It is a tribute which we must expect to pay for the enjoyment of our liberty, and it is the only means of preventing the establishment of a large, expensive and dangerous standing army, by the National Government. For when the people cease to protect themselves, it is only natural that the Government should take them under its care.

While I should be the last man in our country to advise any improper or illegal increase of executive authority, I would respectfully recommend that this department of our State Government be invested with all the appointments and responsibilities which were conferred upon it by the Constitution, and which have been assumed by the Legislature, not only because it is due to the majesty of the law, but on account of the responsibility of the Executive to the whole people, and his more general acquaintance with them, which qualifies him pre-eminently for the discharge of such duties; and it is an absurdity, in my opinion, for a legislative body consisting of so many members, whose duty it is to make laws, to assume the powers and responsibility of electing officers for counties and districts in which the majority of them have no acquaintance, and to the inhabitants of which they owe no responsibility; and especially is it unwise for a Legislature to consume its time, and distract its deliberations, with elections which properly belong to another department.

Every possible encouragement should be given to institutions of learning, whether the common school or college; they are the corner stones of our free Government. Education is the foundation of every enjoyment of man in this world, and of hope of blessing in the world to come;—and I am happy to say that our own State already exhibits some of the improvements in schools and modes of instruction, which so peculiarly distinguish the present age.

It will be found that the present revenue is altogether inadequate to the expenditures of the State, and has been so for a number of years, until the Legislature have appropriated for the current expenses of the State Government $719,784 61, of the School Fund, which should be replaced as early as practicable, and the future support of Government be provided for by an increase of the taxes, which may be very small, as the amount of taxable land is rapidly increasing.

The $2,000,000 of stock in the State Bank of Illinois, and $1,000,000 in the Bank of Illinois, which was authorized to be subscribed, has been taken, and the State bonds for three millions have been executed and delivered to the Fund Commissioners for that purpose. State bonds to the amount of $2,204,000 have also been sold by the Fund Commissioners, on account of Internal Improvement, and $1,000,000 has been issued and sold on account of the Illinois and Michigan canal; $417,919 14 has been received on deposit from the United States out of its surplus revenue, ($364,192 29 of which sum was, however, appropriated to and forms a part of the School Fund;) these sums together with the $719,784 61 of the School Fund, and the sum of $19,009 25 deficiency in the Treasury, on the 1st day of December, constitute the debt, by the State, and amount in the whole to $6,558,601 57.

The dreadful ravages and baneful effects of intemperance are felt and acknowledged in our whole country. Christians, philanthropists, and statesmen, not only of this, but every part of the civilized world, are now engaged in exposing the extent and evils of this degrading and most alarming vice; and some of our sister States have undertaken, by legislative provision, to eradicate the evil from among them; and I would most respectfully and earnestly recommend the subject as one worthy of your serious consideration.

In taking leave of you, gentlemen, allow me to offer the assurances of my sincere good wishes and friendly feelings for every one of you, as well as for each of your predecessors. The violence with which I have been assailed by my political opponents, during the whole time I have been in office, has caused no rankling in my bosom. The plain manner in which I have felt it my duty to speak of what I sincerely believed to be the errors and abuses of the party now in power, I well knew, would bring their vengeance with all its force upon me; and had I loved ease and office more than my duty, I should have chosen a very different course. But I owe too strong a debt of gratitude to the people of Illinois, and hold the constitution and freedom of the country in too much esteem, ever to shrink from the discharge of any duty which their honor, interest, or safety, require of me.

In conclusion, allow me, gentlemen, to remind you of our obligations to Divine Providence, for the unusual share of health and for the abundant crops and improvements with which our State has been blessed during the last and present years. To secure a continuance of those blessings, and success to your labors as legislators, we must look to, and invoke the blessing of God, who holds the destiny of the world in his own Almighty hand, and who has said that nothing shall prosper which does not acknowledge him as its author.

Mr. Cloud, from the select committee appointed to draft Rules for the government of the House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, made the following report, which was read and concurred in, viz:

RULES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

DUTIES OF THE SPEAKER.

1. He shall take the chair every day precisely at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned on the preceding day; shall immediately call the members to order; and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read.

2. He shall preserve decorum and order; may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House by any two members; on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.

3. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

4. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, viz: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the case may be) say Aye;" and, after the affirmative voice is expressed, "as many as are of the contrary opinion, say No." If the Speaker doubt, or a division is called for, the House shall divide: those of the affirmative side of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those of the negative. If the Speaker still doubts, or a count be required, the Speaker shall name two members, one from each side, to tell the members in the affirmative; which being reported, he shall name two other members, one from each side, to tell the members in the negative; which being reported, he shall rise and state the decision of the House.

5. The Speaker shall examine and correct the journal before it is read; he shall have a general direction of the Hall; he shall have a right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment.

6. All committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House; in which case they shall be appointed by the House.

7. All acts, addresses, and joint resolutions, shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants, and subpoenas, issued by order of the House, shall be under his hand and seal, and attested by the Clerk.

8. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobby or gallery, by the spectators, the Speaker or Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House shall have power to order the lobby or gallery to be cleared.

9. The Speaker shall vote in all cases, and if, after he shall have voted, the House shall be equally divided, the question shall be decided in the negative.

OF DEBATE.

10. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker," and confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality; and no motion shall be considered in order, unless made from the seat occupied by the member.

11. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call to order; and the member called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the House, if appealed to, shall decide without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be permitted to proceed; if against him, and the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the House.

12. When two or more members rise at once, the Speaker shall name the member who is to speak first.

13. No member shall speak more than twice to the same question, nor more than once, unless every member choosing to speak, has spoken.

14. Whilst the Speaker is putting the question or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the room; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse; nor when a member is speaking, shall pass between him and the chair.

15. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is immediately and particularly interested; or in any other case where he was not present when the question was put.

16. Every member who shall be in the House when a question is put, shall vote on one side or the other, unless the House, for special reasons, shall excuse him.

17. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or, if it be in writing, it shall be handed to the chair, and read aloud by the Clerk before debate.

18. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, or read by the Clerk, it shall be considered in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn at any time before decision or amendment.

19. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.

20. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lie on the table, the previous question, to postpone to a day certain, to commit or amend, to postpone indefinitely; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged; and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill, or proposition. A motion to strike out the enacting words of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be considered equivalent to its rejection.

21. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and shall be decided without debate.

22. The previous question being moved and seconded, the question from the chair shall be—"Shall the main question be now put?" and if the "noes" prevail, the main question shall not then be put.

23. On the main question, no member shall speak more than once without leave.

24. Any member may call for a division of the question, when the sense shall admit of it.

25. A motion for commitment, until it shall be decided, shall preclude all amendments of the main question.

26. Motions and reports may be committed, at the pleasure of the House.

27. If a question be lost by adjournment of the House, and revived on the succeeding day, no member who has spoken twice on the preceding day, shall be permitted to speak again without leave.

28. Petitions, memorials, and other papers addressed to the House, may be presented by any member, who shall state to the House the contents thereof; which may be received, read, and referred, on the same day, to the proper committee, if the House agree thereto.

29. When a resolution shall be offered, or a motion made to refer any subject, and different committees shall be proposed, the question shall be taken in the following order: The Committee of the Whole House, a Standing Committee, or a Select Committee.

30. Upon a call of the House for the yeas and nays on any question, the names of the members shall be called in alphabetical order.

31. No member shall name another member present in debate.

32. No bill shall be introduced, unless leave to introduce the same be given by the House, or report of committee; and every such motion may be committed.

33. Every bill, previous to its passage, shall undergo three readings, one on each day, for three days, and free discussion allowed thereon, unless, in case of urgency, the House, by the concurrence of three-fourths, shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule.

34. The general question on the first reading shall be—"Shall the bill be read a second time?"

35. On the second reading of a bill, the Speaker shall state it ready for commitment, amendment, or to be ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; but any bill may be recommitted at any time before the passage.

36. When a bill passes, it shall be certified by the clerk, who, at the foot thereof, shall note the day it passes.

37. As soon as the journal is read, the Speaker shall call for, 1st, petitions; 2d, reports from standing committees; 3d, reports from select committees, 4th, resolutions; which shall be received and disposed of in the order in which they are called; and not more than the forenoon session of each day shall be devoted to business mentioned in this rule, unless the House shall otherwise direct.

38. After the business mentioned in the preceding rule shall have been disposed of, the Speaker shall dispose of the bills, messages and communications on his table, and then proceed to call the orders of the day.

OF COMMITTEES OF THE HOUSE.

39. In forming the Committee of the Whole House, the Speaker shall leave his chair, and a Chairman, to preside in the committee, shall be appointed by the Speaker.

40. Upon a bill being committed to a Committee of the Whole House, the same shall be first read through by the Clerk, and then read and debated by clauses, leaving the preamble to be last considered. After report, the bill shall again be subject to debate and amendment by clauses, before the question of engrossing it be taken.

41. All questions, whether in committee or in the House shall be disposed of in the order in which they were moved, except that, in filling up blanks, the largest sum, and most remote day, shall be first put.

42. The rules of proceeding in the House shall be observed in committee, so far as they may be applicable; except that of limiting the time of speaking.

43. A majority of any committee shall be a sufficient number to proceed to business.

44. Ten o'clock in the morning shall be the standing order of adjournment.

45. The Clerk may read all bills and journals belonging to the House sitting, but he shall rise to read all official communications to this House.

46. The following standing committees shall be appointed, viz: on the Judiciary; on Finance; on Elections; on the Militia; on Internal Improvements; on Education; on Salines; on Public Accounts and Expenditures; on the Penitentiary; on Canals and Canal Lands; on Manufactures and Agriculture; on Claims; on Public Buildings and Grounds; on State Roads; on Counties; and on Engrossed Bills; to consist of not less than five nor more than nine members.

47. It shall be in order for the Committees on Engrossed and Enrolled Bills to report at any time.

48. It shall be the duty of the Committee on Engrossed Bills to examine all engrossed bills, correct any mistakes therein, and report the bills to the House.

49. No motion or proposition, on a subject different from that under consideration, shall be admitted under color of amendment.

50. No rule shall be dispensed with, unless by the concurrence of three-fourths of all the members present.

Mr. Moore moved that the House adjourn; which was not agreed to. And,

On motion of Mr. Williams,

The House adjourned until to-morrow, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1838.

TWO O'CLOCK, P. M.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

At the hour appointed, the Senate, preceded by their Speaker, appeared in the Representative Hall.

Whereupon, the Hon. Thomas C. Browne, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of this State, administered to Thomas Carlin, the Governor elect, the oath of office.

The oath of office was then administered to Stinson H. Anderson, as Lieutenant Governor, by the said Justice Browne:

When, the Governor arose and delivered the following speech to both Houses of the General Assembly :

*Fellow-Citizens of the Senate,
and House of Representatives:*

It is with great diffidence that I assume the responsibilities devolving upon the Executive of this State; and while I regret that the choice of the people did not fall upon some more competent individual, I can only promise, in the discharge of the duties which my station enjoins, unremitting vigilance and my best exertions to maintain and promote the public welfare generally. In carrying out such measures as will be most conducive of, and subservient to, the various interests of the State, I shall confidently rely upon the joint wisdom and co-operation of this General Assembly.

Duly impressed with a sense of the solemn trusts which the partiality and kindness of my fellow-citizens have induced them to confide to my care, it is to me, as I doubt not it is to each of you, a source of infinite gratification to contemplate the present prosperous and happy condition of our State and the country generally.

The mighty energies and inexhaustable resources of the nation have enabled it, in a much shorter period than could have been expected, to overcome the pecuniary embarrassments and pressure occasioned by the mismanagement and over-action of the Banks. Specie payments have generally been resumed, confidence is restored, commerce and business have revived, and every circumstance affords convincing evidence of a season of prosperity and plenty. Amid the calamities and difficulties from which the country has just emerged, Illinois has been particularly fortunate. While the advancement and growth of other States have perhaps been retarded and checked, she has kept steadily on in the march of improvement, rapidly increasing in population and wealth, her enterprising and industrious citizens always reaping the richest rewards for their labor, and receiving the highest prices for every species of production and property. Her prospects are truly bright and flattering. Possessing in an eminent degree the advantages of navigation, blessed with a soil of almost unequalled fertility and admirably adapted to all the purposes of cultivation, with a surface inviting the construction of Internal Improvements, and inhabited by an enterprising and thriving population, with wise and judicious legislation, she will in a few years be second to no State in the Union.

The history of government, however, demonstrates that a system of legislation, to be efficient and salutary, must provide for the moral and intellectual as well as the physical condition of the community. The most effectual means for advancing the interests of the people, and developing the resources of a country, is the general diffusion of knowledge; this is true under all forms of government, but more especially in a republic. In order to maintain republican institutions, it is indispensably necessary that the community be sufficiently intelligent to comprehend their own rights and obligations and the fundamental principles of government. This can only be attained through the medium of an enlarged and comprehensive system of Common Schools; and to this subject I beg leave most respectfully, but most earnestly, to solicit your attention.

The School Fund of the State, exclusive of 16th sections, amounts to six hundred and fourteen thousand six hundred and seventy-seven dollars and thirty-eight cents, and provision has been made for distributing the interest arising from it among the various townships in a rateable proportion to the number of inhabitants.

Owing, however, to imperfections in the acts, or to the indifference of the people, but a limited portion of the townships have availed themselves of the advantages thus afforded.

I would, therefore, respectfully recommend that such a disposition be made of this fund as will amply secure the principal, and at the same time yield the greatest possible amount of interest, and that the various acts for establishing and maintaining a general system of Common Schools be carefully revised and amended.

There are few measures in which the people are more deeply interested than the faithful management of the banking institutions of the State. The regulation of Banks in general, is a question of the most perplexing and difficult nature—one which has baffled the exertions of the wisest and most profound statesmen both of this country and of Europe, and one which at present remains in a very unsettled and imperfect state. The whole history of our Government, and especially the occurrences of the last few years, prove that the principles upon which the banking institutions of the United States have been chartered and conducted are radically and fundamentally defective. Under a judicious and well regulated Banking System, I am persuaded that no exigency or vicissitude that could possibly happen would render a general suspension of specie payments necessary. And such a measure, instead of being sanctioned by legislative enactments, should be carefully guarded against, and, when resorted to by the Banks, should be punished with the utmost rigor. All acts authorising such suspension, and relief laws in general, are so many acts legalising the violation of law and of moral obligation, and cannot fail to exert a pernicious and corrupting influence upon the morals of the people. Among the various defects in the Banking System, I regard the following as a few of the most prominent: the difficulty of exacting from them a strict and rigid compliance with the provisions of their charters and of compelling them by process of law to meet their various obligations and contracts—the impossibility of preventing them from using their power and influence to affect and control the politics of the country.

Another and perhaps more serious objection is, that they often confine their accommodations and loans to speculators and large dealers, to the exclusion of the more numerous classes of the community, who are, in turn, compelled to borrow of those individuals at an advanced and frequently enormous interest.

These being my sentiments in relation to Banks generally, I am of opinion that the deep interest the State has in those institutions as the depositories of its various funds, and in consequence of the large amount of capital it has invested in them, together with the interest the community for whom you are assembled to legislate must feel as the holders of their notes, would warrant you in enacting such penal statutes as would compel them to confine themselves strictly within their legitimate spheres of action, and in instituting, and from time to time repeating, such examinations into their condition and conduct as will most effectually prevent any abuse of their privileges, and secure the interest of the State and people.

The subject of Internal Improvements is one of absorbing interest to the people, and one which merits your most serious and patriotic consideration. The signal success which has attended our sister States in the construction of their extensive Systems of Improvements can leave no doubt of the wise policy and utility of such works. They open new channels of commerce and trade, furnish the farmer and mechanic the means of transporting the products of their labor to market, develop the natural and hidden resources of the country, and stimulate the enterprise and industry of the people.

In view of these great and numerous advantages, the General Assembly of this State, at its last regular session, adopted a general System of Improvements, to be constructed and owned exclusively by the State. In the principles and policy of this plan, contrasted with that of joint stock companies and private corporations, I entirely concur. Had I occupied my present situation at the establishment of this system, I would have recommended its adoption on a less extensive scale, and the construction of the most important works first. Under the present plan of proceeding, however, near two millions of dollars have been expended, and whatever diversity of opinion may now exist as to the expediency of the system as originally projected, all must admit that the character and credit of the State forbid its abandonment. I shall therefore submit it for your consideration, and should you, in your wisdom adopt any modifications which will render it more useful and better suited to the condition and wants of the country, they will meet my hearty co-operation and approval; and whatever course may be pursued, I would recommend a rigid economy in the expenditure of the funds of the State.

The Illinois and Michigan canal is a subject of great importance to this State, and the country generally. No one measure would so directly and so materially advance the commercial, agricultural and manufacturing interests of the whole State as the completion of this stupendous work. The most liberal and enlarged course of legislation in regard to it should be uniformly pursued, and every prudent means employed to promote its vigorous prosecution and speedy completion.

The draining and improvement of the American Bottom, although a local measure, is one of a very laudable nature, and one which would materially advance the interest of that and the surrounding country. This and the improvement of the river bottoms, generally, merit the encouragement of the Legislature, either by memorializing Congress to donate the unsold lands lying within them, or in any other manner that may harmonise with the general interest of the State.

The question of the currency, which has so long agitated, and still continues to agitate, every portion of the Union, is one which so deeply involves all the great interests of the country, that it perhaps merits an allusion here. Upon this subject, and upon the policy of the late and present administrations of the United States Government in general, I differ greatly in opinion with my worthy and much esteemed predecessor. In relation to the currency, three distinct measures have been proposed—the continuance of the State Bank deposit system—the incorporation of a National Bank, and the establishment of an Independent Treasury.

The injuries and losses which have resulted to the Government and people, by the failure of the State Bank deposit system, are sufficient to deter a considerate and prudent community from its longer continuance. This is so manifestly true that, throughout the whole extent of the country, but few advocates for this measure can be found, and even those few seem to advocate it for political effect and to subserve party purposes, rather than with any real expectation of its ultimate success. The final issue, therefore, seems to be between a National Bank and an Independent Treasury; and under these opposite measures, the two great political parties of the country have ranged themselves. It is truly astonishing, to my mind, that between these two measures an intelligent and enlightened public should hesitate. The incorporation of a National Bank, under any of the various forms which have been proposed, I should regard as among the greatest calamities that could befall a free people. The creation of such an institution, as the fiscal agent of the Government, would be unconstitutional, irrepublican and dangerous.

In relation to the unconstitutionality of this measure, I do not entertain the slightest doubt. The Congress of the United States is a body which owes its existence to, and derives all its powers from, the constitution. These powers are of two kinds: those which are expressly delegated, and those which are incidental and necessary to the exercise of delegated powers.

The power to incorporate cannot be regarded as an incidental, contingent power, to be derived by implication and construction, but as a distinct, independent substantive power, and one that as absolutely requires an express grant as the power to declare war. That the constitution expressly delegates to Congress no such power, every individual who has ever read it must know.

These considerations afford to my mind conclusive evidence that this power was neither directly nor indirectly delegated to Congress by the constitution, and that, in the language of that instrument, it was reserved to the States respectively; and for that body to exercise it would be a manifest violation of the constitution and an act of flagrant usurpation. All acts of incorporation and charters creating monopolies, in granting exclusive privileges, operate unequally and unjustly upon the community, and tend to the establishment of fictitious and unnatural distinctions in society. The legitimate and inevitable effect of the privileges which have been extended to banking institutions, both by the National and State Legislatures, is to throw wealth and commercial influence into the hands of the few to the exclusion and injury of the many, and to create and perpetuate a moneyed aristocracy in the country, which is openly at war with equal, simple republican principles, upon which our Government was founded and should be administered.

An institution owned either by the Government or by individual stockholders, with the privilege of using and loaning the public moneys, and possessing capital, power, and resources sufficient to regulate the currency of the country, could not fail to prove dangerous and ultimately destructive to the rights and liberties of the people. A Government Bank would concentrate in the General Government an undue and perhaps fatal amount of power,—would give a new impulse to the tendencies to centralism and consolidation which are already sufficiently strong, and would entirely defeat the objects for which that Government was instituted. The plan of a private corporation upon such a scale is equally objectionable. The late United States Bank was measurably an institution of this kind, and its history should forever deter us from creating another. We have seen it violating the provisions of its charter, defying the authorities of the Government, interfering with the politics of the country, corrupting the public press, bribing the members of Congress, waging war upon the National Executive, and, by wanton panics and pressures, attempting to subdue the republican spirit of the people and coerce them into a submission to its recharter.

Such was the conduct of an institution of moderate capital and limited resources. What, then, have we not to fear from one of almost unlimited power? Every dictate of wisdom and experience forbids its establishment. The tremendous influence such a great central moneyed power could wield, would enable it not only to regulate the currency, but to control the entire commercial and political interests of the whole country, to render itself superior to the authority of the Government and people, to determine our policy at home and abroad, and dictate the terms of peace and of war. The present condition of the currency and the interests of the country generally seem to require the establishment of an Independent Treasury, and the collection and disbursement of the public revenue in specie. This measure, without increasing the influence of any department of the Government, or concentrating power any where, will be attended with the most beneficial results. It will dissolve the connexion between the Government and Banks—a connexion as unnatural and dangerous as the union of church and state—and amply secure the public funds, give to the General Government that degree of freedom and independence which was contemplated by the constitution, and, by creating a constant demand for specie, elevate the precious metals to a proper degree of importance, restrain the banks from over issues, insure a sound and uniform circulating medium, diminish the temptations to extravagant speculations, and effectually secure the people from a recurrence of revulsions and panics and pressures in the money market.

There are various other subjects pertaining to the general interest and policy of the State, which deserve your attention, some of which have been presented in the late communication of my predecessor; and others will present themselves during the progress of your legislation. I shall therefore conclude by reminding you that her condition seems peculiarly to require the vigilant and protecting care of the Legislature; and hope that all sectional prejudices and local interests may be merged in the general welfare, and that harmony and unanimity may characterize your deliberations, and that they may result in promoting the prosperity of the whole State.

The Speaker laid before the House the following report of the Inspectors of the Penitentiary, made in pursuance of law:

TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS:

The Inspectors of the Penitentiary, in obedience to the requisitions of the statute of the State of Illinois, respectfully submit the following REPORT.

The Inspectors of the Penitentiary appointed by the last General Assembly met at the Penitentiary on the 11th of March, 1837, were duly sworn into office, and formed a Board for the transaction of business.

On the application of the Warden of the Penitentiary, Jacob C. Bruner, the sum of seven hundred and ninety-one dollars sixty-two and a half cents was paid to him for the balance due him, as appeared by the settlement made with him by the former Board of Inspectors, up to the 22d November, 1836.

On the 18th of March, 1838, the Warden, J. C. Bruner, presented his account current of Receipts and Expenditures from 22d November, 1836; up to the 16th March inst., by which it appeared that the receipts had been $84 78, and the expenditures $563 91, and the sum of $400 was paid to him, leaving a balance of $79 13, to be adjusted and paid when the Warden shall have rendered an account of work that the convicts had done for an individual who was then absent, and could not be adjusted. The further sum of ten dollars and thirty-seven cents was paid to said J. C. Bruner for glass, hinges, and nails, which he had furnished for the Penitentiary.

On the 11th of April, it was ordered by the Inspectors that contracts should be made for the building of a guard room adjoining the Penitentiary and the Warden's Office, so as to enclose the entrance doors to the Prison Warden's Office and yard; which was accordingly done under the direction of Samuel C. Pierce, one of the Inspectors, and the sum of $600 paid for said work.

On the 17th of April, the Inspectors visited the Penitentiary for the purpose of enquiring into the cause of the escape of four of the convicts soon after the possession of the Penitentiary was taken by the newly appointed Warden, B. S. Enloc. After a thorough examination, the Inspectors were of opinion that the cause of the said convicts escaping, was negligence on the part of the Warden; and a statement to that effect was made and sent to the Governor.

On the third day of May, the Inspectors made an examination and adjustment of certain accounts that were left unsettled by the former Board of Inspectors, amounting to $156 72, which had been contracted by Stinson H. Anderson, late Warden. They received satisfactory evidence that $84 66 of the above amount was justly chargeable to the State; which amount was immediately paid to the respective claimants.

Dr. B. K. Hart was appointed physician to attend upon the convicts, at the salary of one hundred dollars per year, to give his attendance at all times when called upon by the Warden or other officers of the Penitentiary, and to be allowed 50 cents for bleeding, and 50 cents for extracting teeth, and a reasonable charge for medicines.

On the 20th May, 1837, the Inspectors made a final settlement of the accounts of the late Warden, J. C. Bruner, up to the 14th of April, at which time he delivered up the Penitentiary to his successor, and found the sum of $140 36 to be the balance due him up to that time, which was accordingly paid him.

On the 18th day of August, 1837, the possession of the Penitentiary was delivered over by the late Warden, B. S. Enloe, to the Inspectors in accordance with the provisions of the act of the Legislature passed at the called session in July, 1837, when the Board of Inspectors appointed J. R. Woods, one of the Inspectors, their agent, to take charge of the Penitentiary, and to superintend the same and the convicts therein, and all matters relating thereto, until such time as said Inspectors may appoint a superintendent of said Penitentiary; and the said agent was empowered to procure the necessary guard to keep the convicts safe that were confined therein.

On the 19th and 21st of August, the Inspectors met at the Penitentiary to adjust and settle the accounts of the late Warden. By the late Warden's report and account current from the 15th of April, 1837, to the 18th of August inclusive, it appeared that bills and accounts against the prison to the amount of $322 75 had been paid by said Warden; to meet which he had received from the contingent fund $275, leaving a balance due him of $47 75, which was paid to him. The late Warden also laid before the Inspectors bills and accounts against the prison, which had not been paid, amounting to the sum of $353 73, showing that the contingent expenses of the Penitentiary from 15th April, 1837, to 18th of August, 1837, were $676 48. Said report also shows a credit to the State of 122 yards of pounded stone on hand, worth $122—also, the making of 80 pork barrels, at 50 cents each, in all $162—leaving a deficit against the prison of $514 48. The sum of $353 73 was placed in the hands of the agent to pay said claims when called for by those who were entitled to receive it, and to take their receipts for the same, which was duly attended to by said agent of the Inspectors.

On the 1st September, 1837, John R. Woods was appointed, by the Board of Inspectors, Superintendent of the Penitentiary during the pleasure of the Inspectors; the said Superintendent to perform the same duties in regard to the reception, working, and safe-keeping of the convicts, as were incumbent upon the Warden previous to the passage of the act of the special session of the General Assembly of July, 1837, abolishing the office of Warden, and authorizing the Inspectors to appoint a Superintendent, and that he shall act under the direction of the Inspectors, in the working and treatment of the convicts not inconsistent with the laws of the State; and that the said Superintendent, before entering upon the duties of said office, shall take the oath of office as required by the constitution of the State; and that his salary shall be at the rate of eight hundred dollars a year.

There being no suitable room for the convicts in which to eat their meals, the Warden was directed to put up such a building as was needed for that use, making the convicts do as much of the labor as possible. A building one story in height, 18 by 40 feet, was erected and finished for that purpose by the Warden.

On the 24th of October, 1837, the Inspectors ordered that notice be published in the Alton Spectator and Telegraph, that proposals would be received by the Inspectors until the 10th November next, for the erection of thirty-two additional cells to the Penitentiary of the like materials and workmanship of those already erected—also to extend the prison-house so as to enclose the same.

On the 10th November, 1837, the Inspectors proceeded to open the proposals for the building of the addition to the prison cells, &c., according to the plan and specifications exhibited by the Inspectors to the bidders; when it appeared that Caswell & Whittaker's bid was the lowest offered; which was accepted, and a contract entered into by them to lay the foundation of the cells and building upon the solid rock, at the rate of two dollars per perch, the convicts to dig out the earth for the foundation; and the sum of eleven thousand eight hundred and thirty-one dollars and eighty-five cents for the other work complete, to correspond with the other cells. An extra door in the exterior wall was ordered to be made by the Inspectors, similar to the cell doors, but of larger dimensions, which was done according to their directions, and the sum of $160 allowed therefor; and the Inspectors agreed to pay the said Caswell & Whittaker seventy-five per cent. on the work as it progressed, and when completed, to pay them the twenty-five per cent. reserved for the faithful performance of the contract; and there has been paid to said Caswell & Whittaker the sum of eight thousand nine hundred and forty-one dollars, leaving a balance of three thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine dollars and eighty-five cents, to be paid when the work is completed, (which will be done in a few days) and which will be in full for their contract.

On the 26th day of May, 1837, the Inspectors (in office at that time) purchased a draft of the County Commissioners of Madison county, for the sum of three thousand dollars, bearing interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum, drawn by the County Commissioners on Messrs. John M. Krum, Charles W. Hunter, Alfred Cowles, Robert Smith, John Hogan & Co., Aldrich & Buffam, Clawson & Cock, Nathaniel Buckmaster, J. A. Townsend, Jacob C. Bruner, Cock & Fifield, and Stephen Griggs, and accepted by them, payable, five days after demand made, at the Alton Branch of the State Bank of Illinois; and on the 4th of August, 1837, the Inspectors purchased another draft of said County Commissioners of Madison county, for the sum of two thousand dollars, bearing the same rate of interest, drawn by said Commissioners on Messrs. John M. Krum, Alfred Cowles, Thomas G. Hawley, Nathaniel Buckmaster, Henry Evans, M. W. Carrol, B. K. Hart, George Heaton, B. I. Gilman, A. C. Hankinson, William Martin, and George T. M. Davis, and accepted by them, payable at the Alton Branch of the State Bank of Illinois. The acceptors of the above drafts have been called upon for payment, the money being wanted to pay Messrs. Caswell and Whittaker for their work enlarging the Penitentiary, but they have not, as yet, paid the same. They say that they accepted the drafts to enable the county commissioners (who had no funds at their disposal,) to build a bridge across Wood river, which had been swept away by the high water, and one across Shield's branch; that the whole country was suffering for the want of said bridges—they being on the mail route from Carlyle to Alton, as well as from St. Louis through Alton to the upper or northern part of the State; that the mails and lives of passengers were endangered in crossing Wood river, the mails being swept away by the current, and horses in the stages being drowned, &c. &c.; that they expected the county would be in funds to relieve them from their liability on the drafts before the money would be wanted by the Inspectors; but that not being the case, they have confidence that, by a fair statement of the facts, the Legislature will relieve them, either by loaning the amount to the county of Madison, or by making an appropriation for that amount, the same having been expended in improving that part of the great western mail route between Carlyle and Alton, (after the State has been so liberal in improving the mail route from Carlyle to St. Louis, Mo.) The Inspectors certainly can have no objection, and they would respectfully suggest whether, under the circumstances, it would not be right and expedient to relieve them from their liabilities. But the Inspectors do not feel justified in delaying the collection of the drafts any longer. A demand has therefore been made at the Bank, and the acceptors and drawers will be protested, so as to bring suit on them at the January Term of the Municipal Court in Alton. Should the Legislature be disposed to do any thing in relation thereto, immediate action on the subject would be necessary, that the proceedings on the acceptances might be stayed.

By the Inspectors' report made to the Legislature, December, 1836, it appears that there was in Bank at that time to their credit, the sum of sixteen thousand five hundred and ninety-eight dollars and eighty-three cents, which is accounted for in the following manner:

Amount in Bank	-	-	-	$16,598 83
Amount paid J. C. Bruner for glass, nails, &c.,			$10 37
“ “ James Semple, fee for services in ejection suit,	-	-	20 00
Amount paid for erecting guard room,	-	-	600 00
“ “ for dining room and other improvements,	-	-	1,111 10
Amount paid Caswell & Whittaker, foundation of prison, extra door-cells and prison-house, &c.,			8,820 00
Amount loaned to the contingent fund,	-	-	1,037 36
Amount paid for county commissioners' drafts,			5,000 00
				<hr/> $16,598 83

By the above it will be observed that upwards of one thousand dollars of the building fund has been loaned to the contingent fund. This became absolutely necessary, owing to the depression in all kinds of business during the last two years, and the impossibility of making sales of the articles manufactured by the convicts. By the Warden's report, hereunto annexed, giving a detailed statement of all the contingent expenses for the last two years, it appears that there is property on hand to meet the above loan, or for other purposes, to the amount of $832, when sales can be effected. It will likewise be seen that the convicts are of very considerable expense to the State, and will continue to be, in the opinion of the Inspectors, unless a change of policy takes place. One great source of evil is the frequent changing of the Wardens or Superintendents. By the time they get to understand the management of the convicts and the business carried on in the prison, their time expires. The Inspectors are of opinion that the best interests of the State will be promoted by leasing the whole concern to some trusty and responsible person for six, eight or ten years. By the act of the Legislature, at its special session in July, 1837, the Inspectors were authorised to lease out the Penitentiary convicts, &c., but as they had no authority to extend the time beyond the two years, no one could be found willing to take it, and clear the State of all expense. For any one to clear the expenses of the convicts by their own labor, they must be learned mechanical trades, which, in most cases, will take two years before their labor is of much profit.

The plan of the Penitentiary which was adopted by the first commissioners, Gov. Bond, Wm. P. McKee, Esq., and Dr. Jayne, is such an one that, until completed, will be very insecure; hence the reason, in a great degree, of the great number of escapes. According to the plan adopted by the first commissioners, it will probably cost fifty or sixty thousand dollars to complete the same. If the State had the funds at its disposal, it would no doubt be the best policy, as to the saving of expense and the security of the convicts, to have it completed as speedily as possible. There are now fifty-six cells, and it is very probable that before the next two years end, they will all be occupied. It would then seem to be necessary that an appropriation should be made by the present Legislature to extend the prison, in the event that it should become necessary to do so before the next Legislature convenes. By the original plan, the keeper's house was to be built in front of the prison, and would probably cost six thousand dollars, which has not as yet been commenced. A temporary building for the keeper was erected inside of the yard wall, and which was designed for a Hospital for the sick, whenever the keeper's house should be built; this house is now wanted for the sick, and some provision must be made for their better accommodation another year, or their lives will be endangered for the want of it. We should therefore recommend that an appropriation for the building the keeper's house be made, and that the same be completed as speedily as possible, so that the present building may be used for a Hospital, according to the original intention.

The report of the Superintendent to the Inspectors is attached, and made a part of this report, together with the report of the physician of the prison, &c. By the Warden's report it will be observed that there is due the Warden or Superintendent, the sum of $565 63. We would suggest the propriety and necessity of an appropriation being made to pay the Superintendent the amount due him at as early a day as convenient.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Permit me to call your attention to the situation of the field-pieces and their carriages, belonging to the State, now deposited in the yard.—They are but indifferently protected from the weather, and if suffered to remain much longer in their present condition, will be much injured. Seven are natives of New York—five of Kentucky—four of Ireland—three of Ohio—two of Maryland—two of England—one of New Jersey—one of Vermont—one of Massachusetts—one of Missouri—one of the West Indies—one of Scotland—and one of Illinois. The shortest term for which any convict has been committed during the last fifteen months, is eight months; the crime was manslaughter, and the convict was released in four months. The longest term for which any convict has been committed, is “for and during his natural life, and twenty-four years thereafter.” The convict was a black boy, and the crime rape. He died in three weeks after being received.

Of the thirty now in confinement, one is a mulatto—two are black men, and twenty-seven are white men. But eight had trades when they came, and only two of these now work at the same. Thirteen are married men and seventeen single. The youngest is seventeen, and the oldest is forty-five years of age. Twenty-four attribute their present misfortune to the use of intoxicating liquor. But four have ever made a profession of religion,—they were members of the Roman Catholic church. But three have ever attended Sabbath school, and but one has been a member of a Temperance society. The Sabbath, by all, has been disregarded since they came to the west.

Of the fifteen discharged by me, one is in business with his father in Kentucky; four are at work in the vicinity of this city, and these five maintain a correct and moral deportment. The others I have not heard from.

The short periods for which a majority of the criminals heretofore have been sentenced to the Penitentiary, constitutes in itself, a great hindrance to their becoming profitable to the State, particularly where they are ignorant of any mechanical branch of business. The time lost and materials wasted in the instruction of such, is an important objection to their being employed at a trade; while the probability of their attempting to escape is not thereby, in the least diminished.

At the close of my first quarter, Nov. 18, 1837, there were in confinement twenty-seven prisoners, and during that time I had kept an open account with each convict, of the actual labor performed, and the time lost by sickness, wet weather and other causes. The average of time lost by each man, was nineteen days in three months, and my estimate of work done in same period, placing the valuation at a very low rate, amounted to $657 60.

I have been thus particular in the preceding statements, gentlemen, in order to furnish you, and through you, the next Legislature, with what may, in some measure, serve as a basis of calculation in relation to the future administration of the affairs of this Penitentiary.

When I entered upon the discharge of my duties as its Superintendent, I found every thing connected with the Penitentiary, in a very unfavorable condition. The Warden's house and yard, the prison cells and kitchen, were in disorder, and offensively dirty. The bedding and prisoners' clothes, were, with the exception of ten blankets, ten pair summer pantaloons, some few shirts, and shoes, and hats, unfit for use. But few of the smiths' and carpenters' tools could be found, and there was not a vestige of lumber in the yard. The greater part of the quarrying tools, and all the coopers' tools were claimed and taken away by other individuals. The prisoners' kitchen was almost destitute of the necessary utensils for cooking. Five of the eleven convicts were on the sick list; four were employed in breaking stone—one at coopering—and one at cooking.

I have made the above statement to you, without the slightest intention to reflect upon the management of my predecessor. My sole object is to account for the expenditures I found it necessary to incur.

The cooper's shop is now furnished with the requisite tools for five workmen, excepting a few articles usually furnished by the employer.—The carpenter's shop needs a considerable addition, to the tools on hand, to make a complete sett. The blacksmith's shop has the required number of tools for a moderate prosecution of said business; and the kitchen and eating room have their full complement of furniture.

There is also bedding and cell furniture in use, sufficient for twenty-five convicts through the winter, and twenty-nine heavy cotton 'comfortables,' which, with care, will last five winters.

The business at which the prisoners have been employed, has been principally that of breaking stone for McAdamising, and making cooper ware. At the latter branch of business we have had but one convict employed, who was "bred to the business;" all the others now engaged thereat, and all of those I have discharged who worked at the same business, with one exception, have learned the trade since their commitment. This department is under the immediate control of an employer who furnishes the materials, superintends the making up, and pays a given price for each manufactured article.

Owing to some cause unknown to the Superintendent, (but probably for the want of means and to the embarrassment peculiar to the times) there was not a sufficient supply of stuff and material furnished to enlarge this business to the extent I contemplated at the commencement, and consequently the amount of work done in this department has fallen far short of what it otherwise would have been.

There can be no doubt about the peculiar adaptation of the coopering business to the present condition and circumstances of this Penitentiary, and I would earnestly solicit your attention to the propriety of placing this department upon such a foundation as will secure its successful operation.

The stone-breaking I would recommend to be continued only as an alternative, when other work could not be done, and for the punishment of the refractory of those at other trades.

Manufacturing split-bottom chairs could be made a source of profit with but small expense. We have an excellent workman acquainted with the business.

Should the Legislature decide upon continuing the present organization of the Penitentiary, and it be deemed advisable to enlarge the present branches of business (which may be considered as but just commenced,) it will be necessary to repair the old shop and erect additional ones, or to remove the old one and rebuild it in a more favorable position than it now occupies, and upon a more extensive and convenient plan.

In reference to the escapes which have been effected by a number of convicts during the last fifteen months, I will remark, that I cannot charge myself with any direct negligence or omission of duty. Many of those escapes were attended with circumstances of a suspicious character. It is unnecessary to relate them here. Suffice it to say, however, that the difficulty and almost impracticability of procuring such guards as would or could enter into the feelings and realise the responsibilities and anxieties of the Superintendent, I fully experienced: and when you take into consideration the fact of the walls being open to the ground in two places for weeks at a time, the number of convicts on hand, the notorious reputation that many of them bore of being successful "prison breakers," and the very inadequate force at command to anticipate and counteract their plans for escape, the surprise will be to you, that more have not got away.

For the unusual good health enjoyed by the convicts during the past sickly season, we have great cause of gratitude to a kind and gracious Providence. We have in this respect been especially favored. The Physician of the Penitentiary, it is expected, will lay before you the result of his observations, as it regards the health of the prisoners, and his views in respect to the want of comfortable accommodations for the sick. To the promptitude, kind and unremitting attention of that gentleman, together with his successful management of the diseases common to this place, is mainly to be attributed the fact, of so few deaths having occurred among the prisoners.

Believing it to have been the paramount object of those benefactors of our race, who founded the Penitentiary system, to punish the criminal by a mere deprivation of liberty, and to reform him by the influence of means that could be used with advantage, in such a situation only, I have deemed it a duty to afford the convicts every facility which lay in my power, to receive moral and religious instruction; and accordingly solicited the services of a number of the Clergy in this neighborhood, and which I am happy to say, has been cheerfully rendered, and so far as I have been able to judge, beneficial to the prisoners generally. A Sabbath school was also commenced in the fall of 1837, and with some few intermissions, has been regularly sustained, and the result has been that, of seven who were ignorant of the alphabet, four were tolerable readers when I discharged them, and the remaining three can read in the Spelling book. The "Methodist Book Concern," in this city, made a donation for the use of the convicts, of twelve Bibles, and the clergy of that denomination have manifested a very laudable interest in behalf of the prisoners. The other books and papers used by the convicts, with the exception of the Temperance Herald—ten copies of which are circulated monthly among them—have been taken from my own library. If a variety of moral and religious books were kept for the use of the convicts, it would evidently add to their comfort, and contribute greatly towards preparing them for usefulness in society, when discharged.

Your obedient servant,

November 22, 1838.

J. R. WOODS, Sup't.

ALTON, November 27, 1838.

GENTLEMEN: As a matter of justice to Mr. John R. Woods, present Superintendent of the Penitentiary, I have thought it proper to give my views of his management so far as it has come under my observation.

First—The health of the convicts has been unusually good, considering the unhealthiness of the past season; there has been much less sickness among them, in proportion to their number, than among the inhabitants of the city. This is the more singular, when we recollect that there is no ward appropriated to the sick, and they are compelled to lie in their cells or in the cellar of the main building, either of them very unfit places for a sick man.

Second—That their food has been healthy and sufficient for them, their constant good health and ability to work, affords abundant evidence.

Third—That their discipline has been thorough and effectual, is satisfactorily proved by the quiet, industrious and obedient demeanor of the convicts.

Fourth—It seems to me that it is not to be wondered at so much, that so many escapes have been made, as that there have not been more, when it is recollected that the building and walls have been in an unfinished state, and that, as I am informed, not very ample means are at the disposal of the Superintendent, to keep up, day and night, a vigilant and adequate guard; and,

Fifth—After being an almost daily and not an inattentive observer of the manner in which the present Superintendent has conducted the affairs of the establishment, I cannot do otherwise than give it, as my deliberate opinion, that he deserves well of those who employed him; and that so far as success for the past is concerned, he is well entitled to be continued in his present situation.

With great respect, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

B. K. HART, Physician to the Penitentiary.

GEORGE SMITH and B. F. EDWARDS, Inspectors.

Your committee find, by the examination of depositions, that Emmerson has five illegal votes, which reduces his legal number to 131 votes; and also find that Wm. Pickering had 3 illegal votes, which reduces his number of legal votes to 121 votes: and it is further proven by the deposition of one voter, that he voted for Wm. Pickering, whose vote had been placed, by the clerk, to Mr. Thompson; to which vote your committee believe Pickering is entitled, and which, so counted, would make for Pickering 122 votes; from which it will be seen that Emmerson has a majority of nine votes. Your committee are of the opinion that there are no other matters proved that affect the case, unless that of closing the polls; and it appears, from the evidence adduced, that, for the purpose of taking in all the votes, the polls were kept open until about the hour of nine o'clock at night; at which time they were closed, on a proclamation that in fifteen minutes the polls would be closed. It is further proved that Mr. Pickering requested that the polls should not be closed until 12 o'clock at night, and that he stated there were other persons wishing to vote. And it was also proved that there was one voter who intended to vote, if the polls had not been closed until 12 o'clock. It is also proved, by the deposition of the judges and clerk of said election and the constables that attended on said election, that they believed the votes of all the legal voters who wished to vote were taken in at the time of closing the polls. And it further being proved to your committee that the voter, above referred to, might have voted before the polls were closed, if he had sought opportunity, as others did; and it not being proved that there were voters enough, who wished to vote, to have changed the result, your committee are of the opinion that Allen Emmerson is entitled to a seat; and therefore submit the following resolution, in which they ask the concurrence of the House:

Resolved, That Allen Emmerson is entitled to a seat in this Legislature, as a representative from the county of Edwards.

On the question—"Will the House concur with the committee in their report?"

It was decided in the affirmative.

Mr Smith of Wabash proposed for adoption the following, which was rejected, viz:

Resolved, That the 46th rule of the House be amended by adding after the words "on counties," the following, viz: "on corporations."

On motion of Mr. Moore,

Resolved, That the committee on State roads be instructed to inquire into the expediency of amending the road law of this State, and of printing the same in a separate volume for the use of the supervisors throughout the State; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. George Smith proposed for adoption the following resolution, which was rejected, viz:

Resolved, That the committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire into the expediency of repealing so much of the "Act concerning judgments and executions," approved January 19th, 1825, as makes it lawful for any judgment creditor to redeem lands or tenements that may have been sold by virtue of any execution; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

And then the House adjourned until 2 o'clock, P. M.

TWO O'CLOCK, P. M.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

On motion of Mr. Gouge,

The following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz:

It having pleased Divine Providence to remove from his earthly existence, Doctor William G. Reddick, a member elect of this House:

Resolved, That the members of this House will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That this House do sincerely condole with his afflicted relatives on their melancholy bereavement.

Resolved, That the clerk of the House inform the Senate of the adoption of the foregoing resolutions.

Resolved, That in testimony of respect to the memory of the late Doctor Wm. G. Reddick, the House do now adjourn.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1838.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Speaker laid before the House the biennial report of the Auditor of Public Accounts, made in pursuance of law; the reading of which was, on the motion of Mr. Dawson, dispensed with, laid on the table and one thousand copies ordered to be printed for the use of the House.

Which report is as follows:

There has been no School Fund received from the General Government since the 26th day of January, 1838, and none received on account of the amount due for the years 1837 and 1838. What amount is now due, I am not in possession of the means of ascertaining; but as large quantities of the public lands have been sold within the two past years, the sum due the State must be considerable. About two weeks since, a patent was received from the General Government for eleven and one-half sections of Seminary lands, to complete the quantity granted in lieu of the township surrendered by the act of 1831. There is yet due the State seven sections, to complete the quantity of Seminary land granted by the act of Congress of 1818.

A Statement of the amount drawn from the Treasury, on account of the Contingent Fund, from June 30, 1837, to December 1, 1838.

In the foregoing statement of the amount of taxes paid into the county treasuries, a road tax, if any have been assessed, is not included, as I have no official knowledge of the same. I have endeavored in this report, to furnish the General Assembly with all such information as will enable them to act advisedly in relation to our revenue system. The period has arrived when an amendment of our revenue laws can no longer be postponed, without great injury to the State. The total amount of revenue, from taxes on lands under the present system, amounts to about $46,000; and from the Banks, for bonus and dividends on stock, to about $21,500; making, in all, the sum of $67,500. These are the only sources of revenue which the State possesses, except the school fund, which ought not to be regarded as a legitimate source of revenue.—There is no probability that, under existing laws, the revenue of the State will increase. In the years 1835 and 1836, large quantities of land were entered, both by residents and non-residents, for purposes of speculation; and should these lands still remain in the hands of the original purchasers at the time when they become taxable, the State revenue would undoubtedly increase, (were there no causes operating to diminish the amount now received.) It is, however, a fact that the lands of non-residents are almost daily passing into the hands of residents; and the decrease of revenue from this cause will counterbalance any accession which it might receive from the causes above mentioned. It may, therefore, safely be assumed that the revenue of the State, under existing laws, will not increase. On the 1st day of January next, the sum of $43,571 52 must be paid out of the State Treasury for the interest on the school, college and seminary fund; and the expenses of the Legislature for the present session may be assumed (including all incidental expenses) at $80,000. These two expenditures alone form the sum of $123,571 52, a sum nearly twice as large as the annual revenue of the State. From the estimates above submitted, there cannot be a doubt that there is an imperative necessity for a new and improved revenue system; and while it is believed that there is sufficient wisdom and intelligence in the present Legislature to frame a well regulated system of finance, and one which will yield a revenue adequate to all the wants of the State, it is, at the same time, believed that no labor will be spared on their part which may be necessary to frame such laws as will produce these desirable results. Any further information which the Legislature may desire (in my power to give) or any suggestion which my experience in the situation which I have for several years past held, may enable me to afford, either in the principles or details of a revenue system, will be most cheerfully given. The foregoing remarks are submitted with all deference to the wisdom of the Legislature, and in accordance with what I conceive to be my duty.

Whereas, the speedy location and completion of the Cumberland road, west of Vandalia, through this State, to the Mississippi river, is a subject of vital interest to this State, and more especially to the counties through which the same must pass; and whereas the delay on the part of the General Government to continue said road to the western borders of this State has occasioned repeated and deep complaints on the part of our citizens, and has, to a very great degree, retarded the prosperity and permanent settlement of the counties through which the same must pass, and while our citizens are thus kept in suspense, it must necessarily check, to a great degree, all enterprise and permanent improvements on said contemplated route: Therefore,

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested to use their best exertions to procure the passage of a law in Congress providing, for the speedy location of said road to some eligible point on the Mississippi river.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to cause copies of the foregoing preamble and resolutions to be forwarded to each of our members in Congress.

Mr. Johnson moved that the preamble and resolutions be committed to a committee of the Whole House, and made the order of the day for Monday next.

Whereas, by an ordinance adopted by this State, at the time she became a member of the Union, it was provided and agreed with the United States, among other things, that one-sixth of three-fifths of five per cent. of the nett proceeds of all lands sold in this State should be, by the Legislature, exclusively bestowed on a College or University; and it was further provided and agreed by said ordinance, that two entire townships of land should be reserved for the use of a seminary of learning, and vested in the Legislature of this State, to be appropriated solely to the use of such seminary; and it was further provided and declared, that said ordinance should not be revoked without the consent of the United States; and whereas, it is the opinion of this General Assembly, that it would be more beneficial to the people of this State, now and hereafter, if the above specified funds should be appropriated for the use of common schools: Therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use their exertions to procure the consent of the United States to the revocation of so much of said ordinance as confines the appropriation of the above funds for the support of a college or university, and a seminary of learning, so that the same may be applied by the Legislature for the support of common schools; and that the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of this preamble and resolution to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

That, whenever the defendant has no property from which the debt in execution can be made, and the constable so return the fi. fa., the plaintiff may take a special summons against any person that may be indebted to said defendant, to answer, under oath, as to his indebtedness to said defendant; and if it appear that he is so indebted, then judgment shall be entered against him, as in cases of garnishees. To require the county commissioners' court to allow justices of the peace and constables, out of the money collected by them for fines, all costs accruing in cases where the execution against the defendant for assault and battery or affrays shall be returned, no property found. That in all cases of appeal, the defendant shall make oath before the justices, that he does not take the appeal for delay, but believes the judgment is unjust or erroneous. Mr. Happy proposed for adoption the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the committee on Internal Improvements be instructed to inquire into the expediency of so amending the law providing for a Board of Public Works as to provide for the election of three commissioners only, and of giving them a permanent salary; also, the expediency of providing for the election or appointment of a chief engineer of the State; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Archer moved to lay the resolution on the table; which was not agreed to.

And then the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Smith of Wabash, from the committee on Internal Improvements, introduced the following resolution, viz:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That the Legislature of the State of Indiana be requested to pass a law at its present session, declaring at what points the State of Indiana will meet the State of Illinois, at the line dividing the two States, in the construction of the easterly ends of the Northern Cross railroad, and the Alton and Shelbyville railroad, in Illinois, to the end that the State of Illinois may meet the State of Indiana in the construction of the said works, and their continuation to the intersection of the Erie and Wabash canal, in Indiana; and, also, that the Legislature of Indiana provide, in said act, that, if the State of Illinois deem it proper to construct such connection from the State line to the said canal herself, and on her own account, the right of way for such construction be indefeasibly granted to her, provided said State of Illinois elect to do so during the present session of her Legislature.

Mr. Williams, from the committee on Finance, made the following report, which was read, viz:

The Committee on Finance, to which was referred that part of the Governor's Inaugural address which relates to currency, have had so much thereof as relates to the establishment of an Independent Treasury and to a National Bank under consideration; and a majority of said committee have directed me to make the following report:

In reviewing the history of the United States, we find that the employment of banks, as fiscal agents, in keeping and disbursing the public moneys, is a practice almost coeval with the very organization of our Government. It was commenced during the administration of Washington, the first President of the Union, and was continued without intermission, through all the changes of administration, until the retirement of President Jackson from office.

For the greater part of this time, the first Bank of the United States, chartered by Congress, in 1791, and approved by President Washington, and the second United States Bank, chartered in 1816, and approved by President Madison, were the agents for the discharge of these duties: but during two periods, the banks chartered by the several States were substituted for a National Bank, viz: from the expiration of the charter of the first United States Bank in 1811, until the creation of the second in 1816; and from the removal of the deposits from the latter bank in 1833, until the end of President Jackson's term of office.

The practice, however, of employing some banks, either State or National, as fiscal agents for the General Government, was uniformly and constantly followed by all the Presidents, until the accession of Mr. Van Buren in 1837.

During this period of nearly half a century, our prosperity was unexampled. The increase of our wealth and population, the development of our resources, and our improvement in all the useful pursuits of civilized life, were extensive and rapid, beyond all parallel in the previous annals of the world. Vast tracts of country were reclaimed from the wilderness—forests were levelled—prairies converted into fertile fields—roads opened—rivers explored and the obstructions removed which impeded their navigation. The increase of agricultural products promoted the expansion of other branches of industry. Manufactures of various sorts sprang up and flourished; our commerce was pushed to every quarter of the globe; our sails whitened every sea; and the American flag floated in every breeze, from the Arctic ocean to the southernmost shores of the Pacific. The Old World saw with surprise and admiration our infant colonies, but recently formed into a union of States, advancing with giant strides to the rank of a mighty nation.

Thus it will be seen, from this brief history of the union which, until recently, existed between the General Government and banks, either State or National—and of the extraordinary and unprecedented degree of prosperity which accompanied us in our onward march during the period of this union—that a system, under which we have increased from a mere handful of people to a most powerful confederacy, and under which we have attained a condition so flourishing, cannot in itself be "radically and fundamentally defective." It is, therefore, a matter of no surprise, that a proposition to sever a union so useful and so beneficial should receive, at its very outset, a most decided and signal rebuke.

The first proposition for such a severance was submitted by Mr. Gamble, of Georgia, during the session of Congress held in the winter of 1834 and 1835. This was as follows:

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to communicate to this House, whether, in his opinion, it is practicable or convenient for that Department to collect, safely keep, and disburse the public moneys of the United States, without the agency of a bank or banks; and, if so, to report to this House the best mode, in his opinion, by which that object can be accomplished."

On motion of Mr. M'Kim, a member of the administration party, the resolution was laid upon the table.

Mr. Gamble, afterwards, on the 6th day of January, 1835, introduced the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to digest, and prepare, and communicate to this House, a detailed plan by which the public revenue of the United States may be collected, safely kept, and disbursed, without the agency of a bank or banks, either State or National."

On the 11th day of February, at the same session, the bill regulating the deposite of the money of the United States in certain local banks, being under consideration, a motion was made by Mr. Robertson, "that the said bill be recommitted to the Committee of Ways and Means, with instructions so to amend the same as to dispense with the agency or instrumentality of banks in the fiscal operations of the Government."

Mr. Gordon moved to amend the said bill, and strike out all thereof after the enacting words, and insert—

"SEC. 1. That from and after the — day of — in the year —, the collectors of the public revenue, at places where the sums collected shall not exceed the sum of — dollars per annum, shall be the agents of the Treasurer, to keep and disburse the same, and be subject to such rules and regulations, and give such bond and security, as he shall prescribe for the faithful execution of their office; and shall receive, in addition to the compensation now allowed by law, — per centum on the sums disbursed, so that it does not exceed the sum of — dollars per annum."

*"SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That at all places, where the amount of public revenue collected shall exceed the sum of — dollars per annum, there shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, receivers of the public revenue, to be agents of the Treasurer, who shall give such bond and security, to keep and disburse the revenue, and be subject to such rules and regulations, as the Treasurer shall prescribe; and shall receive for their services — per centum per annum on the sums disbursed: Provided, it does not exceed the sum of — dollars per annum."*

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That from and after the — day of —, the whole revenue of the United States derived from customs, lands, or other sources, shall be paid in the current coin of the United States."

The yeas and nays were taken upon these several propositions, and, by overwhelming majorities, they were all rejected. Among those who were opposed to their adoption, we find the names of C. C. Cambreleng, Zadok Casey, Richard M. Johnson, Wm. L. May, Henry A. Muhlenberg, James K. Polk, John Reynolds, and (with but very few exceptions) all the members friendly to the administration of President Jackson. Every attempt to effect a separation between bank and State was steadily resisted by the friends of the party in power. The scheme was disapproved by President Jackson himself, and the official paper at Washington denounced it, as subversive of the settled practice of the Government, as tending to increase, to an alarming extent, the power of the Executive, and exposing the public treasure to be plundered by a hundred hands, where one could not before reach it.

From that time until the special session of Congress, in September, 1837, after the accession of Mr. Van Buren, the project was laid asleep; and the State banks continued to be employed as the fiscal agents of the Government.

At the special session just referred to, the system now familiarly known as the Independent Treasury, or Sub-treasury system, was first brought forward as an administration measure. The party which, under President Jackson's administration, had voted against the proposition of Messrs. Gamble, Gordon, and Robertson, were now divided. A majority of the party, coinciding with President Van Buren, supported the measure, while a considerable minority adhered to their original view of the subject.

The bill was defeated at the special session. It was again brought up at the last regular session, and again lost—the Conservative party, as they have been called, remaining firm in their opposition to it.

Your committee do not wish to be understood as resisting, without inquiry or examination, all changes in the fiscal affairs of the Government. They are not hostile to such changes as may be shown to be necessary and proper: but, in view of the high degree of prosperity which the American nation has enjoyed under the system pursued since the foundation of the Government to the present day—when it is proposed to forsake that system and embrace a new and untried plan—they ask, what are the grounds, what are the reasons and considerations which render this change necessary and proper?—and this inquiry is deemed the more important, because of the signal condemnation passed upon this scheme during the session of Congress in 1834-35, above referred to, with the concurrence of some of those who are now advocating its adoption.

If the example of European nations be quoted, in which plans have been adopted similar to that under consideration—we ask if there be any thing in the character of their governments, or the condition of their subjects, which should excite the envy or challenge the imitation of the American people?

It may be said that it is improper to deposit with the Banks the public money, lest it be used as a fund for banking operations. In the opinion of your committee a sufficient answer to this objection is to be found in a recent vote of this House, declaring it inexpedient to make the collectors of our State revenues the custodiers and disbursers of the same. That vote exhibits, on the part of this House, a preference for banks, over collecting officers, as fiscal agents for the safe keeping and disbursing of moneys, so far as our State revenues are concerned: and your committee are unable to perceive any difference of principle, whether the policy under consideration relates to the revenues of this State or to those of the United States.

A favorite argument in behalf of this scheme is, that it is a divorce of Bank and State, and the creation of an Independent Treasury.

To this your committee answer that it will divorce bank and State only to cement a union still more dangerous—the union of political influence with the influence of money—the Executive patronage with the control of the public purse. It will create a treasury, independent (it is true) of the people, and of their representatives, but dependent upon the President, the Secretary of the Treasury, and thousands of subordinate officers, who hold their appointments at the discretion of the President; among whom are to be included numerous secret agents who, under color of examining into the accounts of the collecting and disbursing officers, may be sent into every part of the Union to operate upon elections.

Another fruitful topic of declamation with the advocates of the Sub-treasury system is, the supposed insecurity of the public money in the deposite banks; and this is especially alluded to in that part of Governor Carlin's message which has been referred to this committee. In refutation of this idea, your committee deem it only necessary to quote from a report made by Mr. Woodbury, then and now Secretary of the Treasury, during the session of Congress of 1834 and 1835. He says—

“It is a singular fact, in praise of this description of public debtors—
“the selected banks—that there is not now due on deposite, in the whole “of them, which have ever stopped payment, from the establishment of “the constitution to the present moment, a sum much beyond what is “now due to the United States from one mercantile firm that stopped pay“ment in 1825 or 1826, and of whom ample security was required, and “supposed to be taken, under the responsibility of an oath.

“If we include the whole present dues to the Government from dis“credited banks, at all times, and of all kinds, whether as depositories or “not, and embrace even counterfeit bills, and every other species of un“available funds in the Treasury, they will not exceed what is due from “two such firms. Of almost one hundred banks, not depositories, which,
“during all our wars and commercial embarrassments, have heretofore “failed in any part of the Union, in debt to the Government, on their “bills or otherwise, it will be seen by the above table that the whole
“of them, except seventeen, have adjusted every thing which they owed,
“and that the balance due from those, without interest, is less than “thirty-two thousand dollars.

“Justice to the State banking institutions as a body, whose conduct,
“in particular cases, has certainly been objectionable, but whose inju“ries to the Government have been almost incredibly exaggerated, and “whose great benefits to it, both during the existence of our two National “Banks, and while neither of them existed, have been almost entirely “overlooked, has led me to make this scrutiny, and submit its results, “under a hope that it will, in some degree, not only vindicate them “from much unmerited censure, but justify this department for the

"confidence it formerly, and in the great improvement of their condition and of the financial affairs of the Government, has recently reposed in them. Under these circumstances, so very favorable, with the new security and examinations provided for, your former small losses by them, in keeping and paying over the public revenue, under circumstances so very adverse, are compared with our large losses, either in collecting or disbursing that revenue, their present safety seems to be as great as is consistent with the usual operations of the paper system, or with the credit which must always be entrusted by Government, in some way or other, to agents of some kind, in keeping the public money. In considering their safety, it should be constantly recollected that the owners and managers of banks, when properly regulated by legislative provisions in their charters, like other individuals, interested to transact business securely, are desirous of making and not losing money, and that these circumstances, with the preference, in case of failure, belonging to depositors and holders of their bills over the stockholders, united with the security, if not priority, given to the Government, render them, in point of safety, generally, much superior to individual agents of the United States."

The report from which the foregoing quotations are made, was the basis of the late arrangement between the Government and the deposit banks.

What amount of loss has been sustained by the Government since the suspension of specie payments by those institutions, your committee have no exact means of ascertaining; but from the best sources of information within their reach, they are satisfied that the sum is very inconsiderable.

And they deem it not amiss to insert here a passage relating to these banks, from the message of President Van Buren to the present session of Congress, on the 3d December, 1838. He says: "It is no more than just to the banks to say that, in the late emergency, most of them firmly resisted the strongest temptations to extend their paper issues, when apparently sustained in a suspension of specie payments by public opinion, even though in some cases invited by legislative enactments. To this honorable course, aided by the resistance of the General Government, acting in obedience to the constitution and laws of the United States, to the introduction of an irredeemable paper medium, may be attributed, in a great degree, the speedy restoration of our currency to a sound state, and the business of the country to its wonted prosperity."

Your committee are of opinion that this testimony of the President to the honorable and patriotic conduct of the banks, during "the late emergency," furnishes a strong argument in their behalf, in addition to the considerations urged by Mr. Woodbury in the report already quoted; while the force and truth of some of these considerations have been abundantly demonstrated by the frequent and extensive defalcations of "individual agents of the United States."

The report of the Secretary of the Treasury to Congress, at its last session, presented a surprising list of defaulters among the collectors and receivers of the public moneys; and, very recently, the enormous defalcation of the collector at New York, amounting (as reported) to one million two hundred thousand dollars, has been thought worthy of "particular reference" to Congress by Mr. Van Buren.

Your committee, therefore, after mature consideration of those passages of Governor Carlin's message which have been referred to them, and of all the important subjects connected therewith, beg leave to submit the following resolutions, viz:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That the present condition of the currency and the interests of the country, generally, do not seem to require the establishment of an Independent Treasury, and the collection and disbursement of the public revenue in specie.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to vote against any law or resolution having for its object the adoption of the Independent or Sub-treasury System, in any form whatever.

Resolved, further, That they be instructed to use all their efforts to prevent the recharter of the late National Bank, or the chartering of a National Bank of any kind.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the foregoing resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

And then the House adjourned until two o'clock, P. M.

TWO O'CLOCK, P. M.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

On motion of Mr. Copeland,

Leave of absence was given to Mr. Webb of Alexander.

On motion of Mr. Happy,

Leave of absence was given to Mr. Cloud.

Mr. Walker of Vermilion, from the minority of the committee on Finance, made the following report, which was read, viz:

The minority of the Committee on Finance, to which was referred that part of the Governor's Inaugural address relating to the currency, beg leave to report:

That in an investigation of the matter, they were compelled to differ with the majority of the committee. This difference, however, they are willing to concede as an honest one on the part of the majority, as they wish to have the same accorded to them in the minority.

The committee having decided that it is neither necessary nor proper to establish a National Bank, this inquiry must therefore be limited to the two remaining propositions, which are, substantially, whether the Government shall renew a connection with the State Banks—a connection dissolved by the acts of the banks themselves—or whether some plan cannot be adopted better for the banks, the Government, and the people.

The first inquiry that naturally presents itself is, whether our paper-money banks possess any peculiar right to be the depositories of the General Government. The history of our banking institutions shows, conclusively, that they are established, for the most part, by those who wish to borrow, and not by those who wish to lend; and that their loans, so far from being extended alike to all responsible persons, are confined to a favorite and monopolising few. This remark is made for the purpose of showing that banks have no right to be considered institutions established for the general good of all; on the contrary, that all the good they produce is confined to the directors, stockholders and their favorite friends; while all the evils they engender are distributed, with insidious art, among the rest of the community.

In their strictures on banking, generally, your committee would not be understood as expressing an opinion in relation to our own State institutions, which are constituted differently from most other banking institutions, and to aid the State in particular emergencies; but they cannot say they were created as a rightful receptacle of the funds of the General Government. In elucidation of this part of the subject, the committee would call attention to the following abstract from the discount sheet of the principal bank at Philadelphia, on the 9th of April, 1832:

"The whole amount of notes discounted, was $7,939,679 52; of which more than two-thirds was loaned to ninety persons; more than three millions of dollars were in the hands of seventeen individuals, and nearly one-seventeenth part in the hands of one individual, leaving only $529,974 26 to be divided among the rest of the community." And this by an institution called National.

If we had the same means of getting at what are called State banks, we should probably find that their loans were somewhat in the same proportion, and narrowed down to the smallest circle. Instances have occurred of bank presidents obtaining loans, from the institutions over which they presided, to three times the amount of their capital; and numerous instances are on record, where the whole loanable capital of the bank has been absorbed by two, three, or perhaps a dozen individuals.

A forcible reason for the Government refusing to receive paper money, or to deposite her funds in the vaults of the bank, is to be found in the fact that a number of these institutions have not yet resumed specie payments, and the reasonable doubt that exists as to the ability of many which have resumed to continue. The claim therefore which these institutions set up, of being established and conducted for the public good, is not borne out by the facts; and it follows that they have no particular right to the favor of the General Government.

The next consideration that presents itself is, the safety of these institutions as depositories of the General Government. From the tables of Mr. Gallatin, it would appear that one hundred and sixty-five banks failed from the 1st of January, 1811, to the 1st of January, 1830. At that time there were three hundred and thirty banks in operation; and as no alteration has been made in the system—as the principles on which they are founded and conducted are the same now as then—we must naturally look for like results; and that of the eight hundred or more banks now in existence, a third, or perhaps more, will be found in the course of the next fifteen or twenty years recorded in the list of broken banks.

Experience should teach wisdom; and the fact that the General Government was twice thrown on the verge of bankruptcy, through a connection with the State banks, should of itself be sufficient to deter us from adventuring on such an expedient again.

In 1816, the Government, with twenty-two millions of paper money in her vaults, was forced to borrow money to pay the interest on the National debt; and in 1837, with upwards of thirty millions of money in the State banks, the Government was compelled to resort to the doubtful expedient of issuing Treasury notes in order to meet ordinary demands. Had this money been deposited with individuals, and had they proved as recreant to their trust as the banks have, no one would have thought of employing them again. The misfortune is, that the public mind makes a distinction between the acts of corporations and the acts of individuals; and that which would drive an individual from the public service with disgrace, is looked upon as an additional claim to public favor when committed by a corporation.

The conclusion then of the committee is, that the banks having twice proved recreant to their trust, added to the certainty that more or less of them will, in the course of time, fail to meet their engagements, warrant the assertion that they are not safe depositories of the public revenue.

Another consideration connected with this part of the subject is, the availability of the fund so deposited. It will be admitted, it is presumed, that the principal object the banks have in wishing to be the depositories of the nation, is for the purpose of increasing their loanable capital. The money deposited with them would form the basis on which they could extend their discounts; and so long as the Government has no use for the moneys, so long the banks become liberal—in other words, expand; but if the Government call on them for payment, they must immediately contract their discounts, and thus cause distress in the money market. The alternative that presents itself is, either delay to the Government or embarrassment to their customers.

After the passage of the law distributing the surplus revenue among the States, it became the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to draw on the banks in New York, where the greater part of the revenue is collected, for a large amount of funds. As these funds had been used for the purpose of discounting, they could not be made available without distressing that commercial community; and a deputation visited Washington for the purpose of procuring a delay in the time of payment of their just debts.

The paramount interest of the country demands that whatever money is collected from the people for the use of the Government, should be so kept as to be always available without producing any alteration in the monetary affairs of the people.

In case of a war with any foreign power, the panic in the commercial market would be a signal for the banks to suspend specie payments; and no matter what amount of Government funds might be in their vaults, the war would have to be carried on with an irredeemable currency, or our country left a prey to the enemy. Another danger to be apprehended is, that having the means of war under their control, they might withhold those means and compel the Government to resort to such measures as they might choose to dictate.

The committee, therefore, do not concede that placing the funds of the Government in the State banks is putting them where they will be most available in time of emergency. The expansions and contractions of the banks are not one of the least evils of the banking system, as at present organized; and this evil has been, and will be, greatly increased by the banks being made the depository of the General Government.

When the revenue has accumulated to any considerable amount, the banks feel themselves free to enlarge their discounts, in other words, expand; money becomes plenty, the price of every thing increases in value, with the exception of labor, and an artificial stimulus is given to every department of trade known to our country; but, if the Government draw largely on them, they are forced to contract their discounts; money becomes scarce; panic and pressures are the order of the day; laborers, whose cost of living has been doubled by the expansion of prices, are now thrown entirely out of employment, and reduced to want—find shelter in the almshouse, or, perchance, acquire a precarious living by violation of law. Happily for the people of Illinois, they know not what real poverty is. Here, labor and economy will soon render a man partially independent of the mutations and changes that occur so frequently in the other parts of the Union. The ease with which land can be acquired; the small amount of labor necessary to make the earth produce her fruits, give to the industrious and laboring inhabitants of our State, advantages not possessed by similar inhabitants of the older States. It is asserted, and it is believed on good authority, that upwards of ten thousand people were thrown out of employment in the city of New York alone, by the suspension of specie payments. As the price of labor had not increased with the price of the necessaries of life, these people had no means of earning more than a bare subsistence, and, consequently, when thrown out of employment, were cast penniless on the world.

The great incentive to industry, economy, and rectitude of conduct, is the rational prospect that the labor of our youth will support the feebleness of age; but, by the ever changing value of our currency, which, in its turn, affects the value of every thing else, that income, which would at one time enable the decrepid and the aged to live in ease and comfort, will not at another time procure the necessaries of life. These frequent contractions and expansions are felt by the poor in a greater or less degree, as well as by all classes of society, leading to over-trading, speculation and ultimate ruin.

To check this evil, nothing would have so great an effect as for the Government to refuse receiving bank paper in payment for the public dues. The union of the purse and the sword have, in all countries, and at all times, been considered dangerous; and a union of this kind, cemented by an unnatural and unholy alliance between the General Government and the State banks, would, in the opinion of your committee, be productive of incalculable mischief, and ultimate bankruptcy to the Government.

There are at this time about eight hundred State banks in existence; and, allowing that the average number of persons immediately interested in each of them is five hundred, we then have an army of four hundred thousand persons directly interested in promoting the prosperity of the banks, and consisting of that class of the community who possess the greatest influence in society. Amongst them may be found the restless politician, the heartless speculator, and all those who subsist upon the unordered results of chance—the precarious favors of ever varying providence—who centre around the banks as the only source of hope against that which they call degradation of honest labor. If, to the number which we have already named, we add the number of official agents which an administration might bring into the field, there is no party, no matter how honest their intentions—how holy their cause—but would be annihilated in a contest with such an allied power as this.

The outlines of the Independent Treasury system were first suggested by Mr. Jefferson, in a letter to Mr. Gallatin, thirty-six years since, and, so far from its being a new and untried experiment, its features are in the main the same as those which have governed the United States' Mint—almost the only fiscal agent of the Government which has been conducted without loss to the Government, or injury to the people.

The most prominent principles of the system are, that the Government shall gradually disconnect itself from the State banks, by requiring, on the commencement of the system, one-sixth part of the revenue to be paid in gold and silver; another sixth part to be added from year to year, until the time shall arrive when no other currency shall be received or disbursed, but that known to the constitution—"a gold and silver currency" being, in the words of Daniel Webster, "the law of the land at home, and the law of the world abroad." The Treasurer of the United States, the Treasurer of the Mint at Philadelphia and New Orleans, public receivers at Boston, New York, Charleston, and St. Louis; collectors of the customs at the remaining sea-port towns, and the receivers of the land offices, constitute the fiscal agents of the Government.

In order to prevent fraud and defalcation, many salutary checks and guards are provided, and the use or embezzlement of the public funds, by any of the receivers, is declared felony, and subjects the offender to imprisonment. But six additional officers are required to put the system in operation, at the expense of sixteen thousand five hundred dollars per annum. Such are the plain and practicable provisions of the Independent Treasury system; a system that has been in partial operation, but without the proper checks and guards, from the commencement of the Government; a system that places in the hands of the Government officers no new or dangerous powers; a system founded on the sound principle, that the Government should keep its money in its own hands, for its own use, collecting no more from the people than is necessary for a wise and economical administration of its affairs. The safety of the funds, and the certainty that they would always be available, are much greater than in banks. The officers of the Government and the officers of the banks are, or should be, selected for their probity and intelligence; and there is no reason to suppose that one is more liable to stray from the paths of honesty than the other. A temptation to commit robberies on the exchequer of the nation is no greater than the temptation to filch from the vaults of the banks—the advantages, even in this respect, being on the side of the Independent Treasury system; the accounts being so few and simple as scarcely to admit of false entries without the certainty of detection. The dangers from fire and robbery are less, as the precious metals, though melted, would still retain their intrinsic value; and the difficulties of carrying off and concealing gold and silver are much greater than purloining and secreting paper money.

There is still one great and important point in favor of this system; it is, that the General Government can always draw for its funds to meet any exigency that may arise, without interfering with the monetary affairs of the people—neither causing an expansion of money at one time, or contraction at another—leaving the regulation of the paper money to the banks, and to the States who have assumed the responsibility of authorizing such issues. If it be asserted that a number of the prominent men of the nation, who have heretofore expressed opinions favorable to the State bank deposit system, are now opposed to it, the answer is, that the system had not then been fully tried; and that, when it was found to be utterly defective and wanting in all the requisites necessary for the safe keeping of the public funds, they at once abandoned it. But by a strange inconsistency in the human character, many of our public men who had denounced and prophesied all manner of evil of what they termed the pet bank system, only became convinced of its worth and value, when these depositories of the public money proved fraudulent to their trust, and spread ruin and desolation through the land. Among the names that stand out in bold relief, we find those of Henry Clay, John Quincy Adams, and Daniel Webster.

If it be asserted that our country has, during the whole period of her connection with the State banks, prospered beyond example, the answer is, that our prosperity was owing to far different causes, and that our natural resources are such as to cause us to flourish, despite of that connection. It would be hard to show that the failure of 160 banks, between 1811 and 1830, added any thing to the wealth of the country; and equally difficult would it be to prove that the recent failure or suspension of every bank in the Union was a measure calculated to advance the prosperity of the people.

It may be said that, if it be proper for the State to receive paper money in payment of taxes, the like reasons would apply to the General Government; but there is no analogy in the cases. For the State Government to refuse the notes of banks in which she has so large an interest, and over which she has a direct control, would be to discredit her own paper, and injure her own resources, and might be likened to the General Government refusing to take Treasury Notes in payment of the public dues. A recent defalcation of a collector of the customs is adduced as an argument showing the dangers of the Independent Treasury system. That defalcation commenced while the Bank of the United States was the fiscal agent of the Government—was extended under the State bank deposit system—and was finally detected under the present temporary Independent Treasury system.

The unconstitutionality and danger of a National Bank are sufficient to warrant your committee in an unqualified opposition to such an institution; and if evidence of its unconstitutionality, danger, and inutility is asked for by its friends, they are respectfully referred to the speech of Henry Clay, delivered in Congress in 1811.

Your committee, therefore, concur in so much of Governor Carlin's inaugural address as has reference to the currency; and, in conclusion, report the following resolution:

Resolved, That our Senators be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to vote for any bill having for its object the disconnection of Bank and State.

E. M. DALEY,
J. WILSON GOUGE,
ISAAC P. WALKER,
WM. COMPHER.

Mr. Calhoun moved that the reports made to day by the majority of the committee on Finance, as well as that made by the minority, be laid on the table, and that 1,000 copies of each be printed.

Mr. Thornton called for a division of the questions.

The question was then taken on laying on the table; and decided in the affirmative.

The question was then taken on printing 1,000 copies of each report; and decided in the negative.

Mr. Williams moved that 500 copies be printed; which was agreed to.

The question pending last evening when the House adjourned, being on concurring in the report of the committee of the Whole House in their amendments to the resolution, and proposed amendment thereto, in relation to the public revenue, coming up for consideration:

Mr. Williams moved to lay the whole on the table; which was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Hardin,

The House again resolved itself into a committee of the Whole House on the preamble and resolutions in relation to the continuation of the Cumberland road, west of Vandalia; and after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Ficklin reported that the committee of the Whole House had, according to order, had said preamble and resolutions under consideration, and had amended the same by striking out all after the word "Resolved;" in which amendment he was directed to ask the concurrence of the House.

On the question—"Will the House concur with the committee of the Whole in their amendment?"

It was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Pace moved that the preamble and resolutions be laid upon the table.

When,

The House adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1838.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Henderson, from the committee on Enrolled Bills, reported, as correctly enrolled, a bill, entitled "An act making partial appropriations."

Mr. Maus, from the committee on Engrossed Bills, reported as correctly engrossed, a bill for "An act to provide for the collection of demands growing out of contracts for sales of the possession of the public lands."

Mr. Stapp, from the select committee to which was referred a certain petition, reported a bill for "An act to relocate a part of a State road therein named;" which was read the first time, and

Ordered to a second reading.

Mr. Walker of Fulton presented the petition of the proprietors of the town of Vienna, in the county of Fulton, praying the Legislature of Illinois to change the name of said town; the reading of which was, on his motion, dispensed with, and the same referred to a select committee.

Ordered, That Messrs. Walker of Fulton, Stapp, and Rawalt, be that committee.

Mr. Naper proposed for adoption the following resolution, viz:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That the two Houses convene in the Hall of the House of Representatives, on Thursday, the 20th instant, at two o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of electing a public printer for the State of Illinois, and also the Attorney General, Auditor, Treasurer, and State's Attorneys for the several judicial circuits.

Mr. Carpenter proposed to amend the resolution by striking out the words "Auditor, Treasurer, and State's Attorneys for the several judicial circuits;" which was not agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Craig,

The resolution was amended by adding at the end thereof, the words "except in the sixth judicial circuit."

Mr. Webb of White moved to lay the resolution as amended on the table; which was decided in the negative.

The resolution as amended was then adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk carry said resolution to the Senate, and ask their concurrence therein.

On motion of Mr. Pace,

Resolved, That the committee on Internal Improvements be instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing, by law, that, in the location of the Central Railroad, it shall pass through the towns of Vienna, Frankfort, Mt. Vernon, and Salem; and that they also take into consideration the advantage that would arise to the State, and also to the towns above specified, and the citizens of the counties through which the said railroad will pass, by making the alteration herein specified—they being truly interior counties, and almost entirely destitute of natural means of transportation and inter-communication; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Ficklin proposed for adoption the following preamble and resolutions, viz:

Whereas, at the time of framing and adopting the present Constitution of the United States, there was a strong party whose favorite project was to make the tenure of the offices of the President and Senators of the United States endure for life, and of clothing Congress and the Executive with unlimited powers, reserving but few to the several States:

And whereas the State Rights or Republican party, with Thomas Jefferson and James Madison at its head, was opposed to a strong consolidated empire, and believed that the powers of the Federal Government should rest in certain grants, clearly expressing, and explicitly defining, all powers, rights, and privileges, bestowed upon the Federal Government; and, therefore, had the following provision incorporated into said Constitution—"that the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States, respectively, or to the people:"

And whereas the Federal Constitution is one whose very existence is derived from the States, acting in their high sovereign capacity as States, and the Constitution of the United States is alone the charter of the powers of the Federal Government, and when that is transcended by the Executive, Judicial or Legislative Departments of the General Government, they act in derogation of the reserved rights of the States, and substitute their own discretion as the measure of their power:

And whereas the Federal party succeeded, in 1796, in electing the elder Adams to the Presidency, and in 1798, his friends, adopting a latitudinous construction of the Constitution of the United States, and claiming substantive and distinct powers by implication, which were not conferred in that sacred instrument, succeeded in passing through Congress the "Alien and sedition laws," and the same were approved and signed by the elder Adams; which said laws not only muzzled the press in regard to public functionaries, but also armed the Executive of the nation with fearful and alarming discretionary powers over the person and property of alien friends:

And whereas the Virginia and Kentucky Legislatures, in 1798 and '99, passed resolutions condemnatory of the odious and tyrannical doctrines contained in the "Alien and sedition laws," and of the flagrant encroachments upon, and violations of, the rights of the States; in which resolutions they, in a most lucid manner, define the great land-marks which separate the Federal and State Governments:

And whereas the great Republican State Rights party rallied upon Thomas Jefferson, "the apostle of American liberty," and, after one of the most acrimonious and exciting conflicts ever witnessed in this or any other country, effected that great political revolution by which Thomas Jefferson, in 1801, was placed in the executive chair of the nation:

And whereas, in our country, all power is vested in the people, and is subject to their disposal—and all of our institutions are founded upon the broad basis that the people are capable of self-government: Therefore,

1. Resolved by the House of Representatives, That it is safe to recur frequently to fundamental principles, that we may the better detect new-fangled doctrines and popular heresies.

2. Resolved, That the resolutions of the Virginia and Kentucky Legislatures of 1798–9, penned by Madison and Jefferson, in opposition to the "Alien and sedition laws," contain the correct doctrines in respect to the powers of the Governments of the several States, and of the United States; and that we do concur in the doctrines contained in said resolutions.

3. Resolved, That the doctrine of implied powers, as contended for by the Federal party, destroys not only the Constitution itself, but totally annihilates the rights of the States, and constructs upon their ruins a vast central and consolidated empire.

4. Resolved, That when the Federal Constitution—the great charter of the rights of the minority—shall be construed away or disregarded, the dominant party have an unlimited control over the person and property of the citizen, and over all offices and their emoluments, restricted only by the unchastened discretion of those who happen to be in power.

5. Resolved, That we are in favor of a strict construction of the Federal Constitution, and are opposed to the Legislative, Executive, or Judicial Departments of that Government exercising any power which is not delegated, or plainly deducible from, and incident to, some substantive grant of power.

6. Resolved, That the discretionary exercise, by any one man, of the undefined and undefinable patronage of the Federal Government, is dangerous to Republican liberty, and that it should be curtailed and checked by all the restrictions and safe-guards which can be constitutionally thrown around it.

7. Resolved, That it is the duty of those holding office at the hands of the people, whether in the State or National Governments, to obey the known will of a majority of their constituents or resign the trust confided to them; and the doctrine that the Representative should not be "palsied by the will of his constituents," whether coming from those claiming to be Federalists or Republicans, is radically wrong in principle, and at war with the frame and spirit of our Government.

8. Resolved, That the illustrious framers of our Federal Constitution, acting upon the sound and safe principle, that "the world is governed too much," designed to make ours a Government of republican simplicity and plainness, conducted with an eye to economy—taking from the people by exactions and taxes no more money than might be absolutely necessary for the administration of the Government.

Mr. Fisk moved that the preamble and resolutions be referred to a select committee.

Mr. Murphy of Vermilion moved that they be laid on the table, and that 200 copies be printed.

Mr. Pace called for a division of the question.

The question was then taken on laying on the table, and decided in the affirmative.

The question was then taken on printing 200 copies, and decided in the negative; when,

On motion of Mr. Walker of Vermilion,
150 copies were ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. Alexander,

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested to use their best exertions to procure an appropriation for the further completion of the Cumberland road from Terre-haute, Indiana, to Vandalia, Illinois; and that the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the above resolution to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Ordered, That the Clerk carry said resolution to the Senate, and ask their concurrence therein.

On motion of Mr. Rawalt,

Explain at large the item of "ten per cent. for contingencies"—what compensation is allowed the architect—what is the number of the agents or sub-superintendents having direction of the work—what has been the cost of the construction of said building, in compensation to commissioners, architect, agents, and superintendents—whether the full amount of the $50,000 appropriation has been refunded to the State, in compliance with the law removing the seat of Government to Springfield; and, if not, what amount remains unrefunded, and the reasons (if any) for the same; and whether the State Bank at Springfield did not grant a large loan to the commissioners, or corporation of Springfield, for the construction of said building; and, if so, to which, and the amount of said loan.

Mr. Thornton, from the select committee to which was referred a certain resolution, made the following report:

The select committee, who were instructed by resolution to inquire into the expediency of increasing the salaries of the Governor and Judicial officers of the State, have had that subject under consideration, and, after the most thorough and mature investigation, instructed me to report:—

That they are unanimously of opinion, that the proposed measure is not only highly expedient and just, but also absolutely necessary, and unequivocally called for by the spirit of our Constitution and the best interests of the State.

This opinion is fortified by a variety of reasons, of which a few only need now be enumerated: and, first, in regard to the head of the Executive Department of the State. The annual compensation paid him, ($1,000,) will not more than enable an individual, moving even in the private walks of life, to support a family comfortably; and indeed there are in our State very few persons occupying any official station or place of trust, however unimportant it may be, except our Executive and Judiciary, who do not receive a larger remuneration for their services. How totally inadequate then is the salary of the Governor seen to be, when it is recollected that, in addition to the necessity of supporting his family, he owes so much, not only of his time and labor, but of pecuniary expenditure to the public; and that the value of his services and the responsibilities of his station are so infinitely greater than those of the incumbent of most other offices under our State Government! As the head of our political family, he owes it to himself, and to the sovereign people over whom he presides, not only to devote the greater portion of his time and attention to the guardianship of those interests upon which his administration must necessarily operate, but also to live in a style which, not incompatible with the republican simplicity of our institutions, still must require a large expenditure of money on his part. Residing at the seat of Government, as he should do, he should be prepared at all times, and especially during the sitting of the Legislature, to throw open his doors for the reception and entertainment of the officers of Government and distinguished strangers. This is necessary to aid in the preservation of those relations of harmony and good feeling which should always characterize the intercourse of those entrusted with the management of the affairs of the various departments of our Government, and in making, on the minds of those who visit our State, a favorable impression of our statesmen, our institutions, &c.

The same remarks, in most respects, will apply to the question of increasing the compensation of our Judicial officers; and to them, others peculiar in their application, and equally cogent, may be added. It has always been a desideratum to render the Judiciary independent of all extraneous influences, arising either from a feeble tenure of office, or inadequacy of compensation, and compelling the incumbent of the bench to seek to gain favor with any political party, with a view of being transferred to a more profitable and dignified post. A sufficiency should be allowed to Judges to induce them to seek the office for its own sake, and not as a mere auxiliary to the obtention of other and political preferment—a salary adequate to the support of the incumbent, and such as will prevent him from plunging into speculations, or other active business by which his mind would be constantly abstracted from a devotion to the discharge of his judicial functions. If such be not the case, it cannot be expected, and it would be unreasonable to require them to renounce the means of fairly bettering their condition. Policy then, if no more cogent reason existed, would demand the allowance of a sufficient compensation to make the situation a desirable one, and not of mutation or change, and to secure the constant and undivided attention of its incumbent to the performance of his functions, unswayed by any foreign or improper influence.

In no other department of the Government is reposed so sacred, so important a trust as in the Judiciary. The Legislature may enact; the Executive may approve; but the Judiciary must expound, administer, and enforce the laws. The evils of unwise legislation may be at once detected and easily remedied; the course of Executive misrule, or usurpation, may be speedily checked; and as the deleterious consequences resulting from either must be palpable, so will they be temporary; but the injury done to the best interests of community by an improper or incorrect exposition of the laws by our courts, whether intentional or not, being less widely operative, and consequently less easily perceived, is longer unchecked, and may be irremediable. Unlike the action of the Legislative and Executive Departments, the operations of the courts are silent; and affecting, in most cases, only individual interests, do not, however palpably wrong, so loudly call for, nor so speedily obtain redress. Upon the decisions of the courts depend “the lives, the fortunes, and the sacred honor” of ourselves and our constituents. Then, should not the officers called upon to form and pronounce those decisions, be placed incontestibly beyond the reach of any foreign and malign influence by which their judgments might be swayed? Should they not be freed from the temptation of looking to the interests to be affected by their decisions, when called upon to expound the law, rather than to the law itself, while proud of the dignity of their station, and content with the remuneration made them, they should seek, by a faithful discharge of their duties, to secure for themselves high judicial standing and the confidence of their fellow-citizens, and by this honorable means to strengthen the tenure of an office, holding which, they should consider no other desirable? It may be laid down as an axiom in politics, that on the faithful, impartial, honest, and correct administration of our laws, depends more than on any thing else, not only the welfare of the people, but the popularity of our institutions. Let but the channels of judicial action be polluted or corrupted, and the most awful consequences must ensue; not only will an unjust deprivation of individual life, property, and reputation follow; not only will the innocent suffer, and the guilty go unscathed, but the whole body politic must become diseased. Then, can any one doubt that there should cease to be any longer any disparity between the salaries of our judges and the importance and responsibility of their judicial functions, and that they thus be deterred from stepping from their exalted stations to others still more exalted?

But again, policy demands the appointment not only of honest and upright, but of competent judges. It is in vain that a man may desire to do right, if he be ignorant of what is right. It can afford no solace to the widow and orphans of him who has died upon the gallows, that a false but honest exposition of the law consigned the husband and the father to an ignominious death. The winds of Heaven will not beat less pitilessly upon the unsheltered head of the houseless midnight wanderer who, by the erroneous decision of an honest but ignorant judge, has been reduced from wealth and affluence to poverty and want, from the consideration that the perversion of the principles of law, in their exposition by the court, had been unintentional.

The State should place and retain the best talents and highest legal attainments, as well as the strictest integrity and uprightness, upon the bench. This, under the present state of things, cannot be done effectually. The salaries now allowed the Judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts, after deducting therefrom the incidental expenses necessarily incurred by them in the discharge of their official duties, will not exceed $700 per annum. Not only can every lawyer of fair standing realize four times that amount by his practice, but the perquisites of office of every merchant's clerk, of almost every clerk of the Circuit Court, and of very many justices of the peace, greatly exceed it. Then, can it be supposed that the great pecuniary sacrifice involved in an acceptance or retention of a seat upon the bench, will be made by those now enjoying, or who, by returning to the bar, might enjoy a lucrative practice; or that, if the station be accepted, it will be retained on such terms, devolving, as it does, upon the incumbent not only a sacrifice of personal interest, but so much of fatigue, labor, and responsibility?

However adequate may have been the salaries of our public functionaries on the organization of our State Government, they have long ceased to be so. To prove this assertion, recurrence to the past is only necessary.

The salaries of the Supreme Judges were fixed by the Constitution at $1,000 per annum, during their temporary appointment; and by the same instrument it was declared that the Judges to be chosen on the reorganization of the Judiciary, as well of the inferior as the Supreme Court, should have adequate and competent salaries.

A law made on the 29th March, 1819, in conformity to the sixth section of the third article of the Constitution, establishes the salary still paid the Governor ($1,000.) What was the situation of our State at the period referred to, 1818-19, compared to its present situation? Its population was then but forty thousand; the number of counties was but fifteen; Madison was the extreme northern county on the Mississippi, and Crawford on the Wabash; the northern and eastern portions of the State, which now contain considerably more than one-half of the whole population of the State, held then scarcely fifty families, while much the greater portion was an entire wilderness, inhabited alone by savages. Just emerging into a State Government, her Treasury was then empty, her energies unripe, her resources undeveloped, and her docket almost blank. Now, she contains seventy counties, a population of at least five hundred thousand souls, and, after the next census, will be entitled to at least eight, or perhaps ten members of Congress; while there is in one county in the northern part of the State more judicial business than there was then in the whole State. The duties and labors of the Executive and Judiciary have consequently greatly increased.

Again, if a comparison were made between the intrinsic value of a dollar at that time and the present, it would be found that it would purchase then four times as much as at the present day, owing to the rise and enhanced price of every article of necessity and support; yet the salaries have been during all this time almost stationary, and have not advanced with the advanced price of provisions and labor, and the necessary articles of support. While the State has been gradually but constantly progressing from the feebleness of infancy to the full vigor of maturity, receiving into her bosom the full tide of emigration that has been constantly rolling into it, broad and deep, from all directions; while, with the increase of her physical, numerical, and political strength, and the development of her almost boundless resources, she has been constantly fostering the agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing interests of her citizens; devising and putting into motion her proud, stupendous scheme of internal improvements, and paying amply for every thing furnished her, and for every thing done for her in every department of physical labor—the salary of her Governor has remained entirely, of her Judges nearly, stationary.

This is not as it should be; and your committee believing that the increase of compensation of these officers of the State should, in justice to them and to the State, have kept pace with the change in the affairs of the State, and the character of the times, confidently express the opinion that the time has now come when the evils complained of may, and should, be remedied by an act of wise legislation.

But little examination into the legislation of the other States of the Union is necessary to convince us that the Executive and Judiciary of almost every one of those States are placed, by the compensation made them, on loftier ground than that occupied by our Governor and Judges. In Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, and even Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, and Maine, their compensation is much higher than in ours; but the means of ascertaining the precise sum is not at hand. By the following table, compiled from the laws at the respective years named, a comparison may be instituted between the legislation of our State and that of those named, in this respect, which redounds, in the estimation of your committee, but little to the credit of our State.

Dates.	States.	Governor.	Chancellor.	Judges Supreme Ct.	Judges Circuit Court.
1834	New York - -	$3,500	$3,000	$3,000	$2,000
	Louisiana - -	5,000
	North Carolina - -	3,000	-	2,500	1,950
1819	Alabama - -	2,500	-	1,750
1822	Mississippi - -	2,500	2,000
1819	Georgia - -	3,000	-	2,100
1831	Tennessee - -	2,000	-	1,800	1,300
1838	Missouri - -	1,500	-	1,200	*1,100
	Kentucky - -	-	-	2,000
	Indiana - -	-	-	1,500	1,200

Your committee regret that it is not in the power of the present General Assembly completely to remedy the evil complained of. By the sixth section of the third article of the Constitution, it is declared that the compensation therein allowed to the Governor shall not be increased or diminished during the continuance in office of the incumbent. This constitutional inhibition must prevent an increase of the salary of our present Governor; but your committee, entertaining the opinion that the salaries of the Governor and of the Judges should be raised as early as by the Constitution they may be, in pursuance of these views, report a bill, entitled "An act to increase the salaries of certain officers therein named."

The report was read, laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

The bill accompanying said report was read the first time, and

Ordered to a second reading.

On motion of Mr. Thornton,

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1838.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Speaker laid before the House the report of the State House Commissioners, which was read, and is as follows:

To the Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives.

SIR: In compliance with a resolution, which passed your honorable body on the 21 inst., calling for information in reference to the State house now in progress in Springfield, we have the honor to present the following report:

In answer to the question of "how and in what manner the contracts for the construction of the State house in Springfield have been let out, and to whom," we would state that they were given to the following named gentlemen: L. L. Hill, Reuben Radford, West & Quimley, Daniel Cartwright, and John Hay, they being the lowest responsible bidders. L. L. Hill took the contract for delivering 1,200 perch of stone; which contract was subsequently declared forfeited by the Board, and the quarry carried on by hands, employed by the day, under the immediate superintendence of the Board.

The contract for removing the court house was given to Reuben Radford, notwithstanding there was one bid of 699 dollars, being one dollar less than the bid of Reuben Radford; but on his refusing to enter into bond for the performance of the contract, the next lowest bid was taken.

The contract for brick was given to John Hay.

The contract for lime was given to West and Quimley.

The contract for sand was taken by D. Cartwright.

We are not aware of having refused to give any one of the contracts to the lowest bidder that would enter into bonds for the performance of the contract. The bids were all made in writing, and are now in our possession, subject to examination by any member of your honorable body.

In reference to the inquiry, "Is the work conducted by contract or daily labor, under the supervision of the commissioners or their agents," we would refer to the following paragraph of our report, now in possession of a standing committee of your honorable body; which is in language as follows:

"In relation to the mode of erection adopted by the Board, it is necessary to observe that the small amount of such work previously done in the State, the few persons among us acquainted with the quality and value of the work required, and the entire uncertainty as to where, and at what expense, the chief necessary material could be procured, were considerations which indicated to the Board the propriety and advantage of constructing the work under the immediate superintendence of the Board, rather than by entering into contracts for the performance of a work about which so little was known by experience."

The ten per cent. for contingencies is designed to cover all expenses that may hereafter occur, in the prosecution of the work, that cannot (in the nature of things) be foreseen. For example, by way of illustration, there is, between the stone quarry and the State house, a bridge over Sugar creek, that cost 350 dollars. This bridge may be swept away by a sudden rise of water, or be destroyed in some other way; and, if so, 350 dollars would be required to rebuild it. It is for this and like purposes that engineers and architects, in estimating the cost of a work, add (usually) ten per cent.

The next inquiry, "what compensation is allowed to the Architect," we answer by remarking that, on commencing the work, we entered into a written contract with Mr. Rague (now in possession) to take charge of the work as Architect, conditioned that he give his individual attention to the work, from day to day, on a salary of one thousand dollars a year; which is (in the opinion of the Board) at least fifty per cent. less than similar services could now be procured for.

To the next branch of the inquiry, as to the number of agents or sub-superintendents, we would respectfully answer that the Board have no agents or sub-superintendents in their employ, unless one clerk, to whom is allowed five hundred dollars a year, is entitled to the appellation of agent or sub-superintendent. There is an extra allowance, of fifty cents per day, made to our head workmen at the yard and at the stone quarry, as an equivalent for their extra services.

To the last branch of the inquiry, as to "what has been the cost of the construction of said building, in compensation to commissioners, architects, agents, and superintendents," we answer, that the

Commissioners have received	-	-	-	-	$3,645
Architect	-	-	-	-	1,500
Clerk	-	-	-	-	750

Making, in the aggregate, the sum of	-	-	-	$5,895 up to the first of December, 1838.

The remaining portion of the resolution, requiring your commissioners "to exhibit their books and vouchers to any member of your honorable body who may desire to inspect them, and at the same time to furnish all other information in their power that may be required of them by any member," will be complied with, at all times and under all circumstances, with great pleasure; and since charges of improper conduct have been made out of doors, calculated (if believed) to affect our characters, not only as public functionaries, but as individuals, it is confidently believed that your honorable body will, individually, avail themselves of the requisition made upon us, as an act of justice to us (both in our individual and official capacity) and to the public interest. All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. G. HENRY,
ARCH'D JOB.

The foregoing report was,
On motion of Mr. Ficklin,
Laid on the table.

The Speaker laid before the House the report of the Fund Commissioners, which was read.

Mr. Thornton moved that the report and accompanying documents be laid on the table, and 5,000 copies ordered to be printed.

Mr. Murphy of Vermilion called for a division of the question.

The question was taken upon laying on the table, and decided in the affirmative.

The question was then taken upon printing 5,000 copies, and also decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Murphy of Vermilion,

The following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas there is a bill now pending before this House for the relief of the late Warden of the Penitentiary: and whereas it is rumored that the said late Warden has instituted a suit against the State for his full salary for two years; Therefore,

Resolved, That the committee on the Penitentiary be instructed to inquire into the fact of the pendency of such suit, and report the same to this House, at as early a day as practicable.

On motion of Mr. Alexander,

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That our Senators in Congress be and they are hereby instructed, and our Representatives requested, to urge upon Congress the propriety of passing a law graduating the price of the public lands, and limiting the sales thereof to actual settlers; and of relinquishing to the States all lands that remain unsold after having been offered for sale a certain length of time.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the above resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate thereof, and ask their concurrence therein.

On motion of Mr. Johnson,

The following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, to bring into actual occupancy and cultivation all the arable lands within the limits of the State of Illinois, is a desideratum of the highest importance to the said State: and whereas it is believed legislative encouragement might do much towards bringing that portion of them into cultivation which is situated in the interior of large prairies, and consequently remote from timber: and whereas, although that encouragement might be a primary motive of action with the Legislature of our own State, it cannot be reasonably expected of the General Government: and whereas, because the proceeds of the sales of the public lands are paid into the national Treasury very slowly, and because those lands are the subject of perpetual expense and vexatious legislation, it is believed that the General Government would be willing to dispose of them for ready money, or by instalments, at a rate for below the present minimum price: Therefore,

Resolved, That the committee on Finance be instructed to inquire into the expediency of proposing to purchase, of the General Government, all the unsold lands lying within the limits of the State of Illinois; and that they report by bill, resolution, or otherwise.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Vandalia, Dec. 27, 1838.

SIR: In compliance with a resolution of the House of Representatives of the 19th inst., calling on this department for information in relation to the number of arms due from the General Government to this State; and also whether they have been received, and if so, where deposited, I have the honor herewith to transmit to you the following statement, which contains all the information in the possession of this department, to wit: There will be due the State of Illinois, at the close of the year 1839, 310 pistols, 155 sabres, 155 sabre belts and plates, 597 muskets.

The pistols, sabres, and belts, were deposited by the keeper of arsenal stores at Alleghany, near Pittsburgh, with a commission merchant, with directions to ship them to Alton, where the State arms are deposited, and where my predecessor requested them to be sent. Owing to the low stage of water, and the closing almost of the navigation of both rivers, we have yet received no information of their arrival.

I also enclose herewith a tabular statement showing the number of arms now on hand and deposited in the Penitentiary at Alton; the number that has been issued by my predecessors, as far as it can be ascertained from the files of this department; the condition of those on hand, and the persons to whom arms have been delivered.

But owing to the imperfect organization of the militia of this State, the loose and imperfect manner in which the ordnance stores of this State have heretofore been managed, places it out of the power of this Department, at this time, to furnish a more detailed statement of the situation of this branch of our military, than is herewith transmitted.

I have the honor to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS CARLIN.

To the Hon. the SPEAKER of the

The great importance of these documents renders it highly necessary that the originals should be carefully preserved on the files of this Department; and their voluminous character would have prevented me, in any reasonable time, to have them copied.

I would therefore respectfully recommend to the House of Representatives the propriety of appointing a committee to superintend their printing, with a view to preserve, as far as practicable, the originals without being defaced or injured, and cause them to be returned to this Department.

SIR: In compliance with a resolution of the House of Representatives, calling on this Department for the reports of the Board of Commissioners of the Illinois and Michigan canal, I have the honor herewith to transmit to you their report made to me in conformity to law, which I received on this morning, and which I respectfully request you to lay before the body over which you have the honor to preside.

I am, sir, with high respect,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS CARLIN.

To the Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives.

When,

On motion of Mr. Henderson,

The petition was referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Aldrich, from the select committee to which was referred a certain petition, reported a bill for "An act to relocate part of a State road therein named;" which was read the first time, and

Ordered to a second reading.

Mr. Smith of Wabash, from the committee on Internal Improvements, to which was referred a bill for "An act to construct bridges across the Kaskaskia and Embarrass rivers, at or near the points where the Springfield trace crosses said streams, and for other purposes," reported the same back, and asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the same.

On motion of Mr. Smith of Wabash,

The bill was laid on the table.

Mr. Smith of Wabash, from the committee on Internal Improvements, to which was referred a bill for "An act for the benefit of the counties therein named," reported the same back to the House, and recommended its rejection, for the following reasons:

1st. That the $200,000 appropriated by the 15th division of the 18th section of the Internal Improvement act, to be distributed to the several counties through which no railroad or canal was authorized by that act to be constructed, is vested in the original counties intended by said act to receive the same, and cannot justly be withdrawn from them, in whole or in part, for the purpose of being granted to other counties.

2d. That new counties, which have been formed since the passage of said act out of counties originally entitled to receive a distributive share of this appropriation, should claim their proportionate share of the amounts received or receivable by the original county out of which they have been formed.

3d. That counties, which have been separated from original counties through which railroads or canals were authorized to be constructed, have so separated in their own wrong, and cannot now claim the right of receiving a distributive share of the original appropriation, and thereby lessen the amount intended by the act to be paid to other counties.

The committee express no opinion as to the justice or expediency of the counties named in the bill being entitled to claim an appropriation similar to that granted in the above recited act to other counties similarly situated, as to the location of the public works, but confine their objections to the features of the present bill, which require payments to be made to them out of moneys which the committee entertain the opinion are now already appropriated to and vested in other counties.

On motion of Mr. Henderson,

The bill and report were laid on the table.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Bond, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Representatives that they have adopted the following resolution:

Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring herein, That the standing committees of both Houses on Finance be instructed to examine the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices, and report the result of their labors to their respective Houses, before the 14th January, 1839.

In the adoption of which they ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives. And he withdrew.

Mr. Smith of Wabash, from the committee on Internal Improvements, to which was referred a bill for "An act to incorporate the Albion and Graysville Railroad Company," made the following report:

That, in the opinion of the committee, it is inexpedient for the Legislature to authorize corporations or individuals to construct railroads or canals calculated to come into direct competition with similar works now in a course of construction under the State system of Internal Improvement. It is well known that there exists an honest difference of opinion in regard to the policy and probable revenue to be derived from the State works; and, therefore, the committee deem it unwise, for the Legislature, in the infancy of the system, to abstract from any portion of her own public works the profits and receipts upon which the friends and advocates of the system have predicated their support of it, and thus impair the confidence of the people in its ultimate success.

The committee are free to admit that there may be extreme cases in which, in the adoption of the State system, the wants of some portions of the people have been unavoidably left unprovided for, which might justify a departure from this salutary rule of legislative action. In the case, however, now under consideration, the country proposed to be accommodated by the railroad mentioned in the bill, is already provided for in the system, and the State improvement is in a state of forwardness approximating to completion.

The committee would take this occasion to draw a marked distinction between the construction, by companies, of lateral branches of railroads from the interior to intersect the State improvements, and thereby throw trade and travel upon the latter, and those works calculated to withdraw the business from the main lines, and thus reduce the revenue which the State would otherwise receive.

It is true that there is a provision in the bill under consideration, reserving to the State the privilege of purchasing the road under certain restrictions. But as objections are urged against the State system on account of its magnitude and probable cost, it seems to the committee that the granting of charters at present, with the view of augmenting this objection, would be impolitic.

The committee entertaining these views of the subject do, on general principles of State policy alone, and not with any hostility to this particular bill, report the same back to the House, and recommend its rejection.

After some discussion thereon,

On motion of Mr. Webb of White,

The bill and report were referred to a committee of the Whole House and made the order of the day for this afternoon.

The House then adjourned until 2 o'clock, P. M.

TWO O'CLOCK, P. M.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

Resolved by the people of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That it is due to the sovereignty and interests of this State, that the moneys received by the General Government in payment for the sale of lands within her territory should not, in the absence of insurmountable objections, be transferred to and deposited in the Banks of the adjoining States, to the exclusion of our own Banks.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to institute an early investigation into the causes which have induced the General Government to pursue this policy; which, unexplained, is so injurious to the dignity as well as to the financial interests of this State; and, if it be found that those causes, if any, can be removed, to use their best exertions to procure a discontinuance of the policy.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the above resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

"That while the State Bank deposit system is continued, we regret that the said Banks do not conform to said law, and that they are, by issuing or paying out bills of a less denomination than five dollars, depriving themselves of the receipt of said deposits."

Resolved, That if the said Banks will bring themselves within the provisions of said law of Congress, we think it will be detrimental to said Banks, to cause the revenue collected in this State to be longer deposited in the Bank of Missouri, as long as the State Bank deposit system is continued; and, if persisted in, would warrant the imputation of partiality.

Resolved, That the Presidents of said Banks be requested to communicate to this Legislature whether they do receive or pay out any bills under five dollars; and, if they do not, how long since they ceased to do so.

Resolved, That if said Banks shall report that they do not pay out or receive any bills under five dollars, then our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to use the influence their station gives them, to cause the revenue collected in this State to be deposited in this State, so long as the State Bank deposit system is or shall be continued.

Mr. Fisk, from the committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred a certain communication from the Governor of Georgia, made the following report, which was read, and is as follows:

The committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred a communication from the Governor of Georgia, relative to a correspondence between the Governor of Georgia and the Governor of Maine, upon the refusal of the Governor of Maine to deliver up Daniel Philbrook and Edward Kelloram, citizens of the State of Maine, and fugitives from justice—being charged with the secret and felonious abduction from the city of Savannah of a negro slave named Atticus, the property of James and Henry Sagurs, report:

That said committee have given the subject all the attention which might be expected from the nature and circumstances attending the said correspondence, and would express a deep regret that any attempt should ever be made on the part of the citizens of the free States to interfere, in any manner whatever, with the rights of the citizens of the slaveholding States. Said committee consider the holding of slaves as a constitutional privilege, guarantied to the slaveholding States by the articles of confederation, and that any attempt by the free States to interfere with the rights of the slaveholder would be a violation of a right which ought to be held as sacred as any other portion of the Constitution. Said committee look upon the cause of the abolitionists as one that is carried on through the intemperate zeal of misguided philanthropists; and while their professed object is to ameliorate or better the condition of a portion of the human family, the means which they adopt are calculated to lead to an entirely different result.

It is not the intention or desire of this committee to say any thing that might wound the feelings of any of our fellow-citizens, but only to express a deep regret that such questions should be agitated to distract the peace and quiet of the nation. Said committee would not desire to condemn the State of Maine as a State willing and disposed to encourage a policy which ought to be viewed as a moral and political pestilence, (which, if encouraged and suffered to go unchecked, would, in its tendency, spread devastation and ruin over the land,) until the Executive of that State should have an opportunity to explain the course which he has seen cause to pursue. To prevent any undue excitement of the people of the south, and to save their feelings from being wantonly outraged from any of the misguided fanatics of the north who might be determined, in defiance of sound policy and the dictates of honest patriotism, and of the principles of constitutional law, to keep an excitement in relation to a certain species of property, with which no interference whatever from the free States ought to be encouraged, this committee would respectfully recommend for adoption the following resolutions :

1. Resolved, That we consider the refusal of the Executive of any State to deliver up, or cause to be delivered up, upon the demand of the Executive of any other State, any person who may be charged with the commission of a crime against the laws of the latter State and shall have fled therefrom, not only as dangerous to the rights of the people of the United States in general, but clearly and directly in violation of the plain letter of the Constitution of the United States, which is in the following words, to wit: "A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the Executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime."

2. Resolved, That each State, as a member of this confederacy, by the adoption of the Federal Constitution, became a party thereto, no less for the better protection of their own than the common rights and interests of all; and as such members of the confederacy, a free State or its citizens ought not to interfere with the property of slaveholding States; which property has been guarantied unto them by the Constitution of the United States, and without which guaranty, this Union, perhaps, would never have been formed.

Mr. Williams moved to lay the report and resolutions on the table; which was not agreed to.

The further consideration thereof was postponed until Monday the 14th inst.

On motion of Mr. Hardin,

It was amended in the 11th section by striking out the words "third Monday in January," and inserting in lieu thereof, "20th February."

The question was taken—"Shall the bill pass?"

And decided in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the title of the bill be as aforesaid, and that the Clerk inform the Senate of the passage thereof, and ask their concurrence therein.

Mr. Stapp, from the select committee to which was referred a bill for "An act to legalize the sale of section sixteen, in township nine north, range two east, in Knox county," reported the same with an amendment; which was concurred in, and the bill passed.

Ordered, That the title of the bill be as aforesaid, and that the Clerk inform the Senate thereof, and ask their concurrence therein.

On motion of Mr. Allen of Franklin,

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the committee on Manufactures and Agriculture be instructed to inquire into the expediency of so amending the law in relation to executions as to permit any person, being the head of a family and living with the same, to hold, free of execution, one horse of the value of forty dollars, or one yoke of oxen of equal value; and, also, so as to permit all mechanics to hold, free of execution, the necessary tools of their trade respectively; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

On motion of Mr. Ficklin,

The following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, by the fifteenth section of the eighth article of our State constitution, it is provided that "no person shall be imprisoned for debt, unless upon refusal to deliver up his estate for the benefit of his creditors in such manner as shall be prescribed by law, or in cases where there is a strong presumption of fraud:

And whereas, by the first section of an act, entitled "An act concerning special bail," the arrest and imprisonment of debtors is authorized upon the bare affidavit of creditors, before the rendition of a judgment by which it may be ascertained whether the debtor has refused to surrender his property or has acted fraudulently in relation thereto:

And whereas there are many defects in said act concerning special bail: Therefore,

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire if the first section of the act aforesaid is in accordance with our State constitution, and if the same cannot be advantageously amended; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Bond, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Representatives that they have adopted the following resolutions, viz:

1. Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, That we view, with deep regret, the partiality exercised by the General Government, in causing the deposits of public moneys, collected in the State of Illinois, to be made in Banks without the same.

2. Resolved, That as citizens of Illinois, and representatives of the people thereof, we have confidence in the solvency and safety of our own banking institutions.

3. Resolved, That while we deplore the distracted condition of the country, in relation to the vexed questions of policy and law as to the proper mode of safe-keeping of the revenues of the General Government, we cannot view with composure the continual drain upon our circulating medium, caused by the proceeds of sales of public lands being deposited in Banks of other States, thereby giving those Banks a decided advantage over our institutions and our citizens.

4. Resolved, That we have no hesitation in declaring that the policy and practice of depositing the revenues of the General Government, collected in this State, in the Bank of Missouri, is at war with our best interests; the more especially so since we see that the public moneys are still deposited in Banks to some extent.

5. Resolved, That we consider submission, on the part of our public functionaries in and out of Congress, to the practice of withdrawing from our State the revenues collected here, and depositing them to the support of another banking institution in a neighboring State, as a humiliating surrender of the rights of our citizens, and their claims to equal justice, protection, and support.

6. Resolved, That while we accord, most willingly and cheerfully, whatever advantages may arise to other States from the deposit of revenue collected therein, we are not willing to yield to them the advantages derived from revenue collected in our own.

7. Resolved, That our Senators be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to use the influence which their station gives them, to change the present system of calling out of the State the revenues collected therein, no matter by what rule or regulation the same be countenanced and supported.

And then he withdrew.

Mr. Flood moved to lay the resolutions on the table; which was not agreed to.

When,

On motion of Mr. Thornton,

They were referred to a committee of the Whole House, and made the order of the day for Wednesday next.

And whereas there are two Banks in the State of Illinois, both of them solvent and safe, neither of which is now employed as the depository of the money of the General Government:

Mr. Smith of Wabash, from the committee on Internal Improvements, made the following report:

The committee on Internal Improvements, who were instructed by resolution to inquire into the expediency of constructing a railroad from the head of the Des Moines rapids of the Mississippi river to the intersection of the Peoria and Warsaw railroad, report that they have had the subject under their consideration; and upon the investigation of the probable amount of business which would be done upon the proposed improvement, and the public accommodation to result from its construction, its importance cannot be questioned. The Des Moines rapids, for several months in the year, present a very formidable barrier to the navigation, and render a portage around them, for the immense trade of the river, indispensably necessary. As the trade on the river must rapidly increase with the settlement of the country drained by this great river and its tributaries, it cannot be expected that this important portage will continue long to be overcome in the expensive manner it now is, but that the public convenience will demand a railroad or canal either in Illinois or Iowa.

The committee, however, are unwilling, notwithstanding the great importance of this work, to recommend its construction by the State at present; but they will express their belief that it is one of numerous cases, in which the concentration of individual capital may very properly be authorized by the Legislature to effect the object, reserving to the State the privilege of purchasing the improvement, whenever, in the opinion of the Legislature, the public good requires it to be done. The work does not, in any manner, conflict with the State works, but on the contrary is calculated to throw trade on the latter.

They therefore ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject so far as it is proposed to construct the work by the State.

The report was received, read to the House, and concurred in.

Mr. Smith of Wabash, from the committee on Internal Improvements, to which was referred the following, to wit:

A memorial of the citizens of Illinois to improve the navigation of the Des Plaines river;

A petition of sundry citizens of Morgan county, praying the construction of a turnpike road from Winchester, in Morgan county, to Augusta, in Pike county; and

A resolution of inquiry into the necessity and utility of constructing a turnpike road from Oquawka to the termination of the Illinois and Michigan canal, on the Illinois river;

Reported unfavorably to the same, and asked to be discharged from the further consideration thereof; which was granted.

The Council of Revision have had under consideration the act, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the Penitentiary," and return the same to the House of Representatives as improper to become a law, for the following reasons:

In the first section of the act, the sum of twenty-three hundred dollars is appropriated to defray the incidental expenses of the penitentiary from the twenty-second day of November, eighteen hundred and thirty-eight, to the close of the present session of the General Assembly; and to pay to the Superintendent the balance due him as Superintendent, and the sum of five hundred and sixty-five dollars and sixty-three cents expended by him out of his own funds for the use of said penitentiary, and, also, to pay the sum of ten hundred and thirty-seven dollars and thirty-six cents loaned by the Inspectors to the Superintendent out of the building fund. The sums separately described, if added together, make an aggregate of fifteen hundred and ninety-two dollars and ninety-nine cents only, leaving a difference of eight hundred and seven dollars and eleven cents, between the whole amount appropriated and the sums to be applied to the particular objects of appropriation specified. Whether this excess is to be applied to the payment of the balance due to the Superintendent, is left, at least, doubtful; and whether that balance is the balance due him as Superintendent, the Council have no means of judging, even if it be so.

By the second section, the several sums specified in the first section are treated as separate appropriations, or, at least, it is left extremely doubtful whether they might not be required to be so considered, inasmuch as that section declares that "the above appropriations shall be subject to the order and direction of the Inspectors of the penitentiary."

The section treats them as separate appropriations, being in the plural number. The equivocal character of the act, and the embarrassment to which it might lead in its construction by the Auditor who will be called on to issue the warrant on the Treasury, has, in the judgment of the Council, rendered it proper to return the act for further consideration.

It will also be remarked that a portion of the sums are expressed in figures, a mode which, it is respectfully suggested, ought to be avoided in all laws, and should be written out at length in words.

Mr. Lincoln, from the committee on Finance, to which was referred a resolution directing an inquiry into the expediency of a purchase, by the State of Illinois, from the United States' Government, of the unsold public lands within the limits of said State, made the following report, to wit:

The Committee on Finance, to which was referred a resolution of this House instructing them to inquire into the expediency of proposing to purchase of the Government of the United States all the unsold lands lying within the limits of the State of Illinois, have had the same under consideration, and report:

That, in their opinion, if such purchase could be made on reasonable terms, two objects of high importance to the State might thereby be effected—first, acquire control over all the territory within the limits of the State—and, second, acquire an important source of revenue.

We will examine these two points in their order, and with special reference to their bearing upon our internal improvement system.

In the first place, then, we are now so far advanced in a general system of internal improvements that, if we would, we cannot retreat from it, without disgrace and great loss. The conclusion then is, that we must advance; and if so, the first reason for the State acquiring title to the public lands is, that while we are at great expense in improving the country, and thereby enhancing the value of all the real property within its limits, that enhancement may attach exclusively to property owned by ourselves as a State, or to its citizens as individuals, and not to that owned by the Government of the United States. Again, it is conceded every where, as we believe, that Illinois surpasses every other spot of equal extent upon the face of the globe, in fertility of soil, and in the proportionable amount of the same which is sufficiently level for actual cultivation; and consequently that she is endowed by nature with the capacity of sustaining a greater amount of agricultural wealth and population than any other equal extent of territory in the world. To such an amount of wealth and population, our internal improvement system, now so alarming, in view of its having to be borne by our present numbers, and with our present means, would be a burden of no sort of consequence. How important, then, is it that all our energies should be exerted to bring that wealth and population among us as speedily as possible. But what, it may be asked, can the ownership of the land by the State do towards the accomplishment of that desirable object? It may be answered that the chief obstruction to the more rapid settlement of our country is found in the fact that so much of our best lands lie so remote from timber—an obstruction that, did our State but own those lands, our Legislature might do much towards removing, by extending encouragement in the shape of donations, exemptions from ordinary burdens, or otherwise, to the rearing and cultivating of timber, or to the invention of means of building and enclosure that might dispense with the present profuse use of timber. This, then, is another reason why the State should desire the control of all the lands within its limits.

Looking to these lands in the second point of view, to wit: as a source of revenue, your committee submit the following: There are now of unsold lands in the State of Illinois, twenty millions of acres, more or less. Should we purchase all of them, at 25 cents per acre, they would cost us five millions of dollars. This sum we might borrow, and the proceeds of the sales of the lands, at the present price of $1 25 per acre, would repay the principal, together with the interest thereon, at five per cent. for thirty years, and one-half the lands still be left us.

In a very short time we shall have contracted a very heavy debt for the construction of public works; and yet those works will remain for a time so incomplete as to return us nothing; meanwhile the interest upon our debt must be paid. When this juncture shall arrive (as surely it will) we shall find ourselves at a point which may aptly be likened to the dead point in the steam-engine—a point extremely difficult of turning—but which, when once turned, will present no further difficulty, and all will again be well. The aid that we might derive in that particular juncture, by the purchase of the public lands, affords, in the opinion of the committee, the strongest reason for making that purchase. The annual proceeds of the sales of those lands, should the subsequent sales bear any proportion to those of former times, will pay the interest on the loan created for their own purchase, and also upon many millions of our internal improvement loans; and that, too, at that particular time when we shall have but very small, if any other, means of paying it. And finally, when our public works shall be completed, and consequently able to sustain themselves, the proceeds of the sales of the lands may be diverted to the payment of the original debt contracted for the purchase of them. To show that we are not mistaken in saying that the proceeds of the sales of the lands will annually pay the interest on their own loan, and also on a large amount of the internal improvement loan, it is only necessary to state that the interest on the land loan would be but five hundred thousand dollars, annually, and that the proceeds of the sales of the public lands in this State have, in one instance, been about three millions a year (the committee speak from memory only;) so that, should the average of the subsequent sales be half as large, we still should have left one million annually, to pay interest on our internal improvement debt.

The only remaining question is, whether there is any probability of the General Government accepting such a proposal. We think there are some reasons for believing it would. It would relieve the General Government from a perpetual source of expensive and vexatious legislation, which, perhaps, annually absorbs one-tenth of all it receives from that source of revenue. She would receive of us, at once, and without trouble, five millions of dollars—a sum one-third part as large as she paid a foreign government for the Louisiana territory, then including what are now the States of Louisiana, Arkansas, and Missouri—and receive it, too, after having received of us, for lands already sold, a sum equal to the whole sum paid for the Louisiana territory; and she would receive that five millions of dollars at a time when she is in most particular need of money.

But should your committee be mistaken; should there be no probability of the General Government accepting our proposal, still, it is believed no evil can follow the making it.

The committee, therefore, submit the following resolutions:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That the said State propose to purchase of the Government of the United States all the lands not sold or otherwise disposed of, within the limits of said State, at the rate of twenty-five cents per acre, to be paid (unless otherwise agreed upon) at such time as the said Government of the United States shall deliver over to the authorities of the said State of Illinois all the plats, field notes, &c. pertaining to the surveys of said lands.

Resolved, That the faith of the said State of Illinois is hereby irrevocably pledged to carry into effect the foregoing proposal, if the Government of the United States shall accept the same within two years from the passage hereof.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use their best exertions to procure the passage of a law or resolution of Congress accepting the foregoing proposal.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the foregoing resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Mr. Moore, from the committee on Counties, made the following report:

The committee on Counties, to which were referred the petitions and remonstrance of the citizens of Fulton county, for and against the removal of the county seat of said county, beg leave to report:

That they have carefully examined the petitions and remonstrance, and find 1,357 names signed to the petitions, and 1,326 names signed to the remonstrance; they also find that, from the affidavits of different individuals, 206 persons signed the remonstrance, after having signed the petitions; which number, your committee are of opinion, should be taken from the petition, and would leave a majority of 175 in favor of the remonstrance, and against the removal of the county seat. Your committee would also remark that, from the affidavits of sundry individuals, it appears that the persons signing the remonstrance were legal voters and residents of Fulton county. From all the facts which your committee are in possession of, it appears that a decided majority of the legal voters of Fulton county are opposed to a removal of the county seat of said county; and, whilst a law of this State is in force, declaring "that no county seat shall be removed without the consent of a majority of the legal voters of such county," your committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and ask leave to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject; which was read and concurred in.

Mr. Ficklin, from the committee on the Judiciary, to which were referred the petitions for the relief of the heirs of Daniel Dry, reported the same back to the House, and asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the same; which was granted.

Ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. Cloud,

Resolved, That the Assistant Door-keeper of this House be authorized to call to his assistance any boy he may think proper to assist in carrying messages and other papers to the Clerk's table.

On motion of Mr. Flood,

Resolved, That the committee on the Militia be instructed to inquire into the propriety of amending the militia laws of this State, so as to embrace the following provisions, viz:

That the brigade inspector shall attend all regimental and brigade drill-musters for the purpose of instructing the officers in military tactics:

That in all counties in which there are more than one regiment, in addition to the regimental drill-muster, a county drill-muster shall be held annually—at or as near a central position as a suitable point can be obtained—at which all the commissioned officers shall attend; which drill shall continue not less than two nor more than five days:

That the court, for the assessment of fines, shall be composed of the captains of the regiment only; and that the court of appeals shall be composed of the regimental field officers, to be held after the court for the assessment of fines, in the same year; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

On motion of Mr. Churchill,

Resolved, That the committee on Internal Improvements be instructed to inquire into the propriety of appropriating the sum of five thousand dollars, or any other sum they may deem advisable, for the purpose of removing the detached rock in the bed of the Illinois river, between Peru and Ottawa; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

On motion of Mr. Smith of Wabash,

Resolved, That the Public Printer be requested to furnish each member of the Senate and House of Representatives with a copy of the reports of the Board of Public Works, and of the Board of Canal Commissioners, so far as the same are printed; and also to furnish the successive sheets as they are printed.

On motion of Mr. Morgan,

Resolved, That the committee on Internal Improvements be instructed to inquire into the expediency of turnpiking that part of the Kaskaskia and St. Louis road which passes over the American Bottom, from the bluff at Michael Palmer's, in Monroe county, to intersect the western mail route at Illinois town, in St. Clair county; and report by bill or otherwise.

On motion of Mr. Johnson,

The following preamble and resolution were adopted, viz:

Whereas the county of Bond is one of those through which no railroad passes, and has received her distributive share of the $200,000 from the Internal Improvement system: and whereas the condition of said county is very peculiarly situated at this time, from the fact that it is uncertain whether the Cumberland road will pass on the Alton or the St. Louis route; it may therefore be seen, at once, that it would be bad policy to make permanent improvements on either of these roads before it is ascertained which route this road will pass, as the amount expended on the road on the route of said Cumberland road would be measurably lost, as Government would make all the work necessary: and whereas the county commissioners of said county were of opinion that there was not an immediate opening to expend said money to an advantage, thought fit, in their wisdom, to loan it at 12 per cent. with the view of expending the interest for the purposes for which said appropriation was made: Therefore,

Resolved, That the committee on the Judiciary be instructed to report a bill which will authorize said commissioners to continue to loan the principal, and expend the interest only for the object for which the appropriation was made, until they find it expedient to expend the principal also.

On motion of Mr. Naper,

The vote taken on concurring in the report of the committee on Counties, in relation to the removal of the county seat of Fulton county, was reconsidered; and,

That we consider it but just and right, while the General Government continues to make deposits with State banks, that the banks in the States in which the revenue is collected should be employed as such depositories, where such banks do not render themselves incapable of becoming deposit banks under the acts of Congress regulating the deposits of public moneys.

Resolved, That as citizens of Illinois, and representatives of the people thereof, we view with regret the deposit of public money, collected from our own citizens in our own State, in the Bank of Missouri, to the detriment of the citizens and banks of our own State.

Resolved, That if the State Bank of Illinois and the Bank of Illinois at Shawneetown shall comply with the regulations enacted by Congress in reference to deposits, and shall properly authenticate that fact to the proper department, we, as the representatives of the people of the State of Illinois, respectfully, yet earnestly ask, and claim as an act of justice, the deposit of the revenue collected in this State to be made in the banks thereof, so long as the Government shall continue to deposit her funds with the State banks, and so long as the banks of the State conform to the acts of Congress on the subject of deposits.

Resolved, That if the General Government shall neglect and refuse to deposit the money collected in this State in the banks thereof, after evidence is laid before the proper department that the banks of Illinois have removed all disabilities on their part to become deposit banks, the people of the State will have just grounds to complain of the policy of the General Government, as unfair and partial.

Resolved, That, if proper evidence be given to our Senators and Representatives that the banks of Illinois come within the purview of the deposit act, our Senators be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use their influence to procure the deposits for the banks of this State.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to forward a copy of the foregoing resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Resolved, That any change in the policy adopted by former Legislatures, in relation to the National road, would show a vacillating course, and have a direct tendency to injure the credit of the State.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to exert all their energies to procure an immediate appropriation, in money or lands, to survey the National road and complete the same from Vandalia, by way of Greenville, to the Mississippi river at Alton.

Mr. Johnson moved to amend, by inserting, before the last resolution, the following:

Inasmuch as this State has been, and is, resolved to pursue such policy that there is no hope that the General Government will ever make said road on such humiliating terms. Therefore:

Resolved, That, as an act of justice to that section of country through which said road would have passed, the State is in duty bound to make said road.

On motion of Mr. Archer,

The resolutions and amendment were referred to the same select committee to which were referred certain other resolutions on the same subject, and,

On motion of Mr. Murphy of Vermillion, it was Ordered, That four additional members should be placed on the said committee.

Ordered, That Messrs. Murphy of Vermilion, Roman, Archer, and Henry, be added to said committee.

On motion of Mr. English,

Resolved, That the Commissioners of the Board of Public Works shall so construe a resolution which passed this House some days since, calling for copies of vouchers, as to mean an abstract, and not a full copy of all vouchers taken by them.

Ordered, That the Clerk communicate the foregoing resolution to the Board of Public Works.

On motion of Mr. McCormick,

Resolved, That the committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire into the expediency of increasing the salaries of State's Attorneys of this State, and also into the propriety of imposing a fine on said officers whenever they shall neglect to attend the regular terms of the courts in their respective circuits; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Logan offered for adoption the following:

Whereas a railroad from the Iron mountain, in the State of Missouri, to some convenient point on the Mississippi river, is now under contemplation in that State; and whereas the vast accumulation of mineral wealth, and the inexhaustable quantity of iron-ore contained in that portion of country, render it a desirable object with the people of that State to obtain every facility within their reach for the transportation of that mineral to the most extensive and profitable markets; and whereas it is considered that if the people of that State were informed of the precise point on the Mississippi at which it would be most convenient to connect their work with the Central railroad of this State, or the Alton and Shawneetown railroad, such point would most likely be selected by them at which the State or citizens of Illinois could with the most facility construct such connecting link; and whereas the Grand Tower, situated in Perry county, Missouri, and opposite the city of that name in Illinois, affords, from its situation in the stream of the Mississippi river, a natural pier for the construction of a bridge across said river, from whence a branch of road, a distance of scarce eighteen miles, would form a junction with the Central railroad of this State near Brownsville, in Jackson county; and whereas the interest of the State of Kentucky would be enlisted by the vast increase of transportation (which this connection would produce) to facilitate the construction of a short lateral branch of railroad connecting that of Charleston and Cincinnati, which traverses said State, with a point of termination on the Ohio either at Cairo or Shawneetown, the distance of only 18 miles from the latter point, a conjunction of such incalculable advantage to the citizens of these respective States as cannot long be disregarded; and whereas the State of Illinois being now engaged in the prosecution of a general system of internal improvements, the interest of the State requires the connection of her railroads with such similar works in her sister States as may contribute to swell the stream of transportation; and whereas it is considered that the interest is mutual, and that a community of feeling should be awakened on the subjects in those States contiguous to Illinois: Be it therefore

Resolved, That the attention of the Legislatures of Kentucky and Missouri be respectfully directed to the consideration of said conjunction.

Resolved, That a lateral branch connecting the Cincinnati and Charleston railroad at some point on the Ohio, either Shawneetown or Cairo, would be of incalculable advantage to that work, and promote the prosperity of both Kentucky and Illinois.

Resolved, That the Legislature of Kentucky be respectfully invited to construct such a conjunctive work as to meet the State of Illinois at one of her two great points on the Ohio river.

Resolved, That the Legislature of Missouri be respectfully requested and invited to terminate the Iron Mountain railroad at the Grand Tower, on the Mississippi river.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the Legislatures of Kentucky and Missouri.

The question was then taken—"Shall the preamble and resolutions be adopted?" and decided in the negative.

Mr. Elliot offered for adoption the following:

Resolved, That the committee on State Roads be instructed to report a bill for an act giving full power and authority to the county commissioners' courts of the several counties to alter, change, or modify all the roads within their respective counties, as well State roads as roads established by county authority: Provided, They shall not have power to change the location of any road on which appropriations are made by the State or General Governments.

The select committee to which was referred a resolution making the following inquiries, viz:

1. Whether the act incorporating the City and Bank of Cairo be still in full force and effect. 2. Whether the company claiming to be incorporated under the title of the City and Bank of Cairo, are the original incorporators, or their legal representatives. 3. Whether the capital of said Bank has been paid, and all its provisions complied with, in the manner prescribed by law: beg leave to report:

That they have given to this subject all the attention which its great importance demands, and sought for every information necessary to its elucidation. The results of their inquiries are herein embodied. They are fully sensible of the delicate nature of making inquiries into what are termed the vested rights of individuals or corporations, and cannot expect wholly to escape censure from interested quarters; but the duty has been imposed on them, and they have endeavored to discharge it with fidelity, and without prejudice or partiality. It has been objected, in the course of their inquiries, that this subject more appropriately belongs to the judicial tribunals of the country, than to the Legislature, for decision. But this committee are of opinion that they are consulting the best interests of their constituents, and of the State, in scrutinizing, with a jealous care, the organization of a chartered institution, with powers to affect or control the fortunes and liberties of the people; and that an institution of this nature, if not founded on legitimate authority, should with more propriety be suppressed in the commencement, than leave its evils to be cured by judicial proceedings, when the community had suffered by their operation. They are further decidedly of opinion that this Legislature has rightful power and authority to annul or revoke the charter of any corporate body, if the public good demands it; and that the Legislature of any former period possessed no right to confer, on any individual or corporation, vested or exclusive privileges, which would bind or limit the action of succeeding Legislatures: and that all such exercises of power are usurpations hostile to the spirit of our institutions, and destructive of those equal rights which the people of every generation, in their sovereign capacity, rightfully enjoy.

The facts in relation to the Bank of Cairo, which have come to the knowledge of your committee, are the following. They are presented with as few comments, or expressions of opinion, as the nature of the inquiries would admit:

In the year 1818, and while this State was under a Territorial Government, a company was incorporated under the title of "The City and Bank of Cairo." The following are the preamble and principal of its provisions:

"Whereas John G. Comyges, Thomas H. Harris, Thomas F. Herbert, Charles Slade, Shadrach Bond, Michael Jones, Warren Brown,

Edward Humphreys, and Charles W. Hunter, have become proprietors, by purchase from the United States, of all that certain tract of land, situate between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and near the junction of the same, and which said tract of land is particularly known and distinguished upon a map or chart of that district of the Territory of Illinois in which the same is comprised, as follows, viz: south fractional half of section number fourteen, south fractional half of section number fifteen, fractional section number twenty-two, twenty-three and twenty-four, north fractional half of section number twenty-five, north half of section number twenty six, and the northeast fractional quarter of section number twenty-seven, in township number seventeen, south of range one west, and containing, in the whole, eighteen hundred acres, or thereabouts: And whereas the said proprietors represent that there is, in their opinion, no position in the whole extent of these western States better calculated, as it respects commercial advantages and local supply, for a great and important city, than that afforded by the junction of those two great highways, the Mississippi and Ohio rivers; but that nature having denied to the extreme point formed by their union, a sufficient degree of elevation to protect the improvements made thereon from the ordinary inundations of the adjacent waters, such elevation is to be found only upon the tract above mentioned and described, so that improvements and property made and located thereon may be deemed perfectly and absolutely secure from all such ordinary inundations, and liable to injury only from the concurrence of unusually high and simultaneous inundations of both of said rivers, an event which is alleged but rarely to happen, and the injurious consequences of which it is considered practicable, by proper embankments, wholly, and effectually, and permanently, to obviate: And whereas there is no doubt that a city, erected at or as near as is practicable to the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, provided it be thus secured by sufficient embankments, or in such other way as experience may prove most efficacious for that purpose, from every such extraordinary inundation, must necessarily become a place of vast consequence to the prosperity of this growing Territory, and in fact to that of the greater part of the inhabitants of these western States: And whereas the above named proprietors are desirous of erecting such city under the sanction and patronage of the Legislature of this Territory, and also of providing by law for the security and prosperity of the same; and, to that end, propose to appropriate the one-third part of all moneys arising from the sale and disposition of the lots into which the same be surveyed, as a fund for the construction and preservation of such dykes, levees, and other embankments as may be necessary to render the same perfectly secure; and also, if such fund shall be deemed sufficient thereto, for the erection of public edifices, and such other improvements in said city as may be, from time to time, considered expedient and practicable; and to appropriate the other two-third parts of said purchase moneys to the operations of banking: And whereas it is considered that an act to incorporate the said proprietors and their associates, viz: all such persons as shall, by purchase or otherwise, hereafter become proprietors of the tract above mentioned and described—as a body corporate and politic, while it guarantees to all those who may become freeholders or residents within said city, the fullest security as to their habitations and property, will at the same time concentrate the views and facilitate the operations of the said proprietors and their said associates, in rendering the said city secure from all such inundations as aforesaid, and in promoting the internal prosperity of the same: Therefore,

"SEC. 1. Be it enacted, That the said John G. Comyges, Thomas H. Harris, Thomas F. Herbert, Charles Slade, Shadrach Bond, Michael Jones, Warren Brown, Edward Humphreys, and Charles W. Hunter, proprietors, as aforesaid, of the said tract of land above mentioned, and all such persons as may hereafter become proprietors, by purchase or otherwise, of any portion of the same, being at the same time stockholders in the bank hereinafter to be provided for; and also all such persons as may become stockholders in said bank, without being proprietors of any of said lots, be, and they are hereby ordained, constituted and appointed a body corporate and politic, in fact and in name of the President, Directors and Company of the Bank of Cairo; and by that name, they and their associates, proprietors and stockholders as aforesaid, may, for thirty years hereafter, have succession, &c.

"SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said John G. Comyges, and his associates, and his and their heirs and assigns, proprietors as aforesaid, shall, within the space of nine months from the passing of this act, proceed to lay off at the expense of said proprietors, upon such site in said tract as may be deemed most eligible therefor, a city, to be known and distinguished by the name of Cairo, &c.

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the price of the said lots into which the said site shall be so laid off as aforesaid shall be fixed and limited at one hundred and fifty dollars each; and the moneys arising from the sale and disposition thereof shall be appropriated as follows, to wit: two-thirds part thereof, that is to say, the sum of one hundred dollars on each and every lot, shall constitute the capital stock of said bank; which capital stock shall be divided into twice as many shares as there are lots; one-half of which shares shall belong to the purchasers of said lots, in the proportion of one share to each lot; and the remaining half of said shares shall be the property of the said John G. Comyges and his associates aforesaid, their heirs and assigns, proprietors as aforesaid, in proportion to the interest which they may respectively hold in the same; the remaining one-third part of the purchase money of said lots to constitute a fund to be exclusively appropriated to the security and improvement of said city, in manner as is hereinafter more particularly directed.

"SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said John G. Comyges and his said associates, his and their heirs and assigns, proprietors as aforesaid, to nominate and appoint by themselves, or their attorneys thereto lawfully authorized, so many commissioners as they may deem necessary for the purpose of receiving subscriptions for the purchase of said lots, upon the terms herein above stated; and it shall be the duty of such commissioners to advertise for sale so many of said lots as they shall be respectively authorized to sell, and to receive subscriptions for the same."

In order to ascertain the correctness of the representations made by the said company in this act, your committee addressed a letter to the Register of the Land Office in Kaskaskia, some weeks since, to which no answer has been returned. From inquiry made at the Auditor's office, however, they have ascertained that fractional section number twenty-three, forming a very large portion of the tract mentioned in the act as the property of the company, had never been entered till the year 1835; and that the company had never been proprietors of the same, by purchase or otherwise. They further ascertained that the east fractional half fourteen, southwest fractional twenty-four, and north fractional half twenty-five, also, north east twenty-six, were entered July 26th, 1817, by John G. Comyges, and by him suffered to revert to the United States, for a failure to pay the residue of the purchase money; and that these last mentioned lands, together with the south fractional half fifteen, fractional sections number twenty-two and twenty-three, were entered in August and September, 1835, by Sidney Breese, Miles A. Gilbert, and Thomas Swanwick.

Thus it appears that all that portion of the land on which this incorporation was founded reverted to, or remained in, the United States, except the north east twenty-six and the north east fractional twenty-seven, which were entered July 28th, 1817, by Shadrach Bond and P. Menard, as trustees of Warren Brown.

From information received from D. B. Holbrook, commissioner for receiving subscriptions for the purchase of lots in the city of Cairo, they have learned that the Central Railroad Company next became possessed of considerable portions of said land, which they transferred to the Cairo City and Canal Company. This last company was authorized by its charter to purchase the whole, or any part of township seventeen, above mentioned, more particularly the tract incorporated in 1818, as the city of Cairo—but banking operations are expressly prohibited.

They next ascertained that this same tract of land was conveyed, by deed of trust, to the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company by articles of agreement between the Illinois Exporting Company and the Cairo City and Canal Company, of each of which companies, D. B. Holbrook is President.

Such is the history of this case, in as connected a form as it could be traced by the committee.

In regard to the first branch of the inquiry, namely: whether the act incorporating the City and Bank of Cairo, be still in force, they would observe that John G. Comyges and others, mentioned in the charter, were not incorporated as associated individuals as in other cases; but they were incorporated as a company, proprietors of a certain tract of land; for in every clause of the act where they are named, they are named as proprietors of this land; and as such they were incorporated. The preamble, as well as the body of the act, shows that the possession of this land, and the erection of a city thereon, "which must necessarily become a place of vast consequence to the prosperity of this growing Territory, and in fact to that of the greater part of the inhabitants of these western States," were the inducements held out for granting the act of incorporation. They would observe further, that as the land embraced in the charter has passed out of the hands of the original company, and as the stock of said bank was to be derived from the sale of portions of said land, this company has not the means left, on which to base their banking operations, as required by the charter.

The land embraced in the City of Cairo, as originally incorporated, has evidently passed into the hands of another and a different corporation; and as banking was only one of the incidents of said company, founded solely on the proprietorship of said city, it would seem plain, that when said property reverted to the Government, and became the property of other individuals and corporations, the banking powers annexed to it, as well as the company itself, became extinct. The charter in that respect being an unit, when any portion of it was voided by the company, it nullified the whole.

In regard to the second branch of the inquiry, the committee are informed that only two of the original corporators are now living; and they have not ascertained that these survivors are connected with the Cairo City and Canal Company, or the Exporting Company; nor would such connection in any way change the nature of their title. The original act incorporates the persons therein named, together with all such persons as may hereafter become proprietors, by purchase or otherwise, of any portion of the same. This cannot be construed to mean any persons but such as have derived a title, by purchase or otherwise, from the said proprietors, and cannot extend to those who might thereafter derive a title from the United States, in case the land reverted. The word "persons," in all legal enactments, means natural persons, and not artificial persons, such as corporations.—(Breese's Reports, Betts vs. Menard.) It follows, therefore, that the Cairo City and Canal Company cannot be considered as any portion of the body politic created by said act; nor can the committee conceive how said company can claim, by assignment, devise, or any legal form of descent, to be a legal representative of any, or all, of the original corporators. The claim, therefore, by this company, or by the Exporting Company, to exercise corporate and political powers, granted to a former and different body of individuals, merely because they obtained possession of their stock, is attaching corporate and political powers to the ownership of property, and selling or transferring said powers with said property—a species of entail feudal in its nature, unknown to our laws, and repugnant to the institutions of our country.

In regard to the third branch of the inquiry, in addition to what has been already stated, the committee are of opinion that the requisition of the 4th section of the act of incorporation has not been complied with. That section enacts that it shall be lawful for said "John G. Comyges and his said associates, proprietors aforesaid, to nominate and appoint so many commissioners as they may deem necessary for the purpose of receiving subscriptions for the purchase of said lots." On making inquiry of D. B. Holbrook, as to who commissioned him to receive subscriptions for the purchase of lots in said city of Cairo, he stated that he was commissioned by the Cairo City and Canal Company, which is, as before stated, a company entirely different from the original company, and deriving no powers under its charter; a company, also, which is expressly inhibited all banking powers, by its charter. Your committee would conclude, therefore, by stating that the provisions of this section of the act have not been complied with; nor have they been able to ascertain that the original company did any thing in order to carry into effect the objects contemplated by the act of incorporation.

And whereas doubts exist whether said institution is authorized, by the laws and constitution of this State, to exercise banking powers: Therefore,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That the Attorney General be, and he is hereby, directed forthwith to institute a judicial inquiry into the legality and conduct of said bank, and that he prosecute such inquiry by writ of quo warranto, or other legal process.

On motion of Mr. Webb of White,

The report was referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Henry, from the select committee to which was referred a bill for "An act to regulate public stages and the law of the road," reported the same with sundry amendments; which were read and concurred in.

Mr. McCutchen, from the select committee, to which was referred a certain petition, reported a bill for "An act to locate a State road from Mount Sterling, in Schuyler county, to Macomb, in McDonough county;" which was twice read, and

Ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. Stapp,

Resolved, That the Board of Fund Commissioners be requested to report to this House what means, if any, they have, of paying the interest on the internal improvement loan, for the two succeeding years; specifying particularly the amount of means now on hand, if any, and from sources to be derived; and whether, in their opinion, if the revenue laws are not changed, so as to provide for raising a larger amount of revenue than is now raised from all sources, they will not be compelled to use a part of the principal of the internal improvement fund to pay the interest due, and to become due, on said fund.

Mr. Walker of Vermilion offered for adoption the following:

Resolved, That the Presidents of the State Bank of Illinois and Bank of Illinois be requested to make application to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, for the deposit of the Government revenue, collected within this State, to be made in said banks; and that, when they make such application, they represent to the Secretary of the Treasury (if such be the fact) that said banks do not issue or pay out any bills of a less denomination than five dollars.

Resolved, That the policy of depositing the public revenue, collected in this State, in the Bank of Missouri, is detrimental to the best interests of our banks.

Resolved, That if said banks shall make the representation to the Secretary before mentioned, a further continuance to deposit said revenues in the Bank of Missouri would warrant the imputation of partiality.

Resolved, That while the State Bank deposit system shall be continued, we believe the banks of our own State are more entitled to be the depositories of the revenue, collected in this State, than the Bank of Missouri.

Resolved, That when said application and representation are made to the Secretary, our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to use their best efforts to procure the revenue, collected in this State, to be deposited in the banks of this State.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Mr. Williams moved to lay the resolutions on the table.

On motion of Mr. Craig,

The following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas the State of Illinois is essentially an agricultural State, and the greater proportion of her inhabitants are deeply interested in every thing relating to the security and permanency of our land titles: and whereas the surveys of the lands in this State have been effected by an officer of the General Government whose office is in another State, and over whom our courts of justice have no control: and whereas there is but a single complete copy of the original field notes and plats of these surveys now in existence, by which the metes and bounds of our lands are to be ascertained and their location identified: and whereas these field notes and plats are constantly liable to be lost, or destroyed by fire, abrasion from constant use, their corrosion by time, bad ink and the various accidents to which pamphlets and loose papers are constantly liable—many of which are now almost illegible: and whereas it frequently occurs in the legal investigation of the titles to our lands in our courts of justice, that certified copies of these field notes are required as evidence: and whereas these field notes and plats are beyond the control of the civil authorities of this State, and have to be procured by the parties litigant, at great expense of time and money, before they can, with safety, go to trial: and whereas we have heretofore indulged the well-founded hope that a Surveyor General's office would, before this time, have been established in this State by the General Government, for completing the survey of our lands: and whereas these just expectations, so long and fondly indulged, are likely to be blasted, as appears by the recent recommendation of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, at Washington, to the chairman of the committee on Public Lands, dated June 20th, 1838, and also to the Hon. R. M. Young, dated January 3d, 1839; in both of which he urges the necessity of attaching the State of Illinois to the Iowa and Wisconsin surveying district, (the office of which is established at Du Buque, in the Territory of Iowa,) for the more speedy survey of the lands in the State of Illinois: and whereas by the removal from St. Louis, in the State of Missouri, of the original field notes and plats of our lands to a Surveyor General's office at Du Buque, in the Territory of Iowa, would make these necessary papers more inaccessible to our courts of justice—a measure directly opposed to the best interests of the State, and subversive of her best rights and reasonable expectations: and whereas it is of the utmost importance to the interests of this State to have the original field notes and plats of survey, on which the titles of our lands are founded, and their location ascertained, recorded and kept within this State, and always accessible to our courts of justice, placed (as far as possible) beyond the reach of accident or loss Therefore,

Resolved, unanimously, by the Senate and House of Representatives, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use their utmost exertions to procure the passage of a law establishing a Surveyor General's office in this State.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to forward copies of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Whereas, by the act of Congress regulating the deposite of the public money in State Banks, approved June 23, 1836, it was provided that at least one bank should be selected in each State or Territory, if any such existed, willing to be employed as a depository of the public money: and whereas there are two banks in Illinois, both of them solvent and safe, neither of which is now employed as the depository of the public money collected in this State: and whereas the money so collected in Illinois is deposited in the State Bank of Missouri, to the manifest injury of our Banks and the people of the State: and whereas the Secretary of the Treasury, under the provisions of the act of 1789, has selected many banks which would have been excluded from the benefits of the deposite act of 1836 as depositories of the public money; which said banks, in common with our own, could not have been selected as depositories of the public money under the provisions of the act of 1836:

1. Be it resolved, by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That our Senators be instructed, and our Representatives, requested, to use every effort necessary to obtain, if possible, the deposite of the money of the General Government, collected in this State, in the Banks of this State, so long as the State Bank deposite system shall be continued.

2. Resolved, That, if any change, by law, be made in the plan of depositing the revenue in Banks, our Senators be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to provide, by law, for the deposite of all the revenue, collected in this State, in the Banks of this State, so long as banks may be used as the fiscal agents of the Government.

2. Resolved, That we deprecate any policy which gives to banks, similarly situated with our own, the deposit of the public revenue, whilst the same benefit, resulting from the deposit system, is not extended to our own banks.

4. Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Mr. Dunn moved to strike out all of the substitute after the words "Be it resolved," and insert, in lieu thereof, the following:

1. By the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, That we view, with deep regret, the partiality exercised by the General Government, in causing the deposits of public moneys, collected in the State of Illinois, to be made in banks without the same.

2. Resolved, That as citizens of Illinois, and Representatives of the people thereof, we have confidence in the solvency and safety of our own banking institutions.

3. Resolved, That while we deplore the distracted condition of the country, in relation to the vexed questions of policy and law as to the proper mode of safe-keeping of the revenues of the General Government, we cannot view, with composure, the continual drain upon our circulating medium, caused by the proceeds of sales of public lands being deposited in banks of other States, thereby giving those banks a decided advantage over our institutions and our citizens.

4. Resolved, That we have no hesitation in declaring that the policy and practice of depositing the revenues of the General Government, collected in this State, in the Bank of Missouri, is at war with our best interests; the more especially so since we see that the public moneys are still deposited in banks to some extent.

5. Resolved, That we consider submission, on the part of our public functionaries in and out of Congress, to the practice of withdrawing from our State the revenues collected here, and depositing them to the support of another banking institution, in a neighboring State, as a humiliating surrender of the rights of our citizens and their claims to equal justice, protection, and support.

6. Resolved, That while we accord most willingly and cheerfully whatever advantages may arise to other States from the deposit of revenue collected therein, we are not willing to yield to them the advantages derived from revenue collected in our own.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

On motion of Mr. Logan,

The rules were dispensed with, and leave given him to introduce the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas the State of Illinois being now engaged in the prosecution of a general system of internal improvements, the interest of the State would be consulted by the connection of her works with those of a similar character in the adjoining States; while it would appear that the mutual interest of the people, in that which would so evidently contribute to the facilities of transportation in each State, would induce them to embrace a proposition fraught with such manifest advantage to all:

And whereas the Cincinnati and Charleston railroad, commencing at the former city, and traversing the fertile and populous States of Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, and South Carolina, and terminating at Charleston, will approach within a short distance of the southern border of Illinois, whence a lateral branch would connect that extensive work with the great system of our State, and through it with Wisconsin, and the vast territory of Missouri, a conjunction of such incalculable value to those respective States, as cannot long be overlooked: And whereas the vast accumulation of mineral wealth, the inexhaustible quantities of iron ore, in the adjacent State of Missouri, render it an object with the mass of her citizens to obtain a certain and convenient market, where the raw material may be exchanged for manufactured article--and such the city of Charleston, from its situation, could not fail to afford: And whereas a company of individuals have undertaken to construct a bridge across the Mississippi river at the Grand Tower, a natural pier situated in the stream of said river, and the nearest point of approximation between the Central railroad and the Mississippi: Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the attention of the Legislature and citizens of Missouri be respectfully directed to the latter point, as a convenient position to effect a junction of their contemplated Iron Mountain road with the works of this State.

Resolved, That the attention of the Legislatures of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri, be respectfully invited to the importance of said conjunctions.

Resolved, That we consider a connecting link between the Cincinnati and Charleston railroad an object of great importance to the said company, and to all the respective States which it traverses.

Resolved, That the Legislatures of Kentucky and Tennessee, or any chartered company, be respectfully invited to construct such a conjunctive work to meet the State of Illinois at the most convenient point on the Ohio.

Resolved, That the Legislature of Missouri, or any chartered company be respectfully invited to terminate their contemplated works, at the most convenient point for connection with the system of Illinois.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested, forthwith, to transmit a copy of these resolutions to each of the Legislatures of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri, now in session.

Resolved, That the said committee be further instructed to inquire what is the amount of stock held by non-residents in said banks; what is the amount of stock held by residents; what is the amount of loans made on pledges or hypothecations of stock, distinguishing between residents and non-residents; what is, or has been, the amount of liabilities of the directors, either as drawers, endorsers, or discounters, during the existence of said banks?

Resolved, That said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and examine witnesses on oath or affirmation; and that they be also authorized to make such other inquiries respecting the condition and management of said banks as they shall deem expedient.

Mr. Speaker: I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that they have concurred with them in their amendments to the Senate's bill, for "An act to increase the corporate powers of the town of Chester."

They have also concurred with the House in their amendments to the Senate's resolution, instructing our Senators, &c. in Congress to use their exertions to procure an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, in relation to the election of President of the United States.

They have passed bills of the following titles, viz:

Whereas certain citizens, males and females, of the State of Illinois, have petitioned the General Assembly of this State, at its present session, to act upon the subject of slavery, and the slave trade in the United States: And whereas the expression of the sense of this Legislature, on the subject of slavery, may do much towards allaying any excitement which may exist in this State on the subject of abolition: And whereas it is due to the slave-holding States of this Union, that the Legislature of this State clearly and fully express the course which this State will and ought to pursue in regard to the distracting question of the abolition of slavery:

Be it therefore resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That it is the right of the citizens to petition the Legislature for the redress of any grievance, or the correction of any wrong, and the imperative duty of the Legislature to receive, to listen to, and act upon any such petition.

2. Resolved, As the sense of this Legislature, That "the General Government cannot do, directly, what it is clearly prohibited from doing directly;" that it is the openly declared design of the abolitionists of this nation to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, with a view to its ultimate abolishment in the States; and that, therefore, the abolishment of slavery in the District of Columbia, or in the several Territories of this Union, or to prohibit the slave trade between the several States of the Union, would be doing or claiming the right to do, by indirection, what is positively prohibited, and, therefore, an invasion of the rights of the States, and an infraction of the federal compact; and that, therefore, Congress ought not to "abolish slavery in the District of Columbia," or in "the several Territories of this Union," or "prohibit the slave trade between the several States."

3. Resolved, That the Legislature of the State of Illinois do not "protest against the admission of new States into this Union, whose Constitution tolerates domestic slavery," nor "against the annexation of Texas to the United States."

4. Resolved, That it is not only unconstitutional, but improper, inexpedient and unwise "to repeal all laws existing on the statutes of this State, which graduate the right of the citizens by the color of the skin."

5. Resolved, That a copy of the above resolutions be forwarded, by the Governor of the State, to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and to the Governors of the several States of the Union.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate thereof.

Mr. Hardin withdrew the motion he made a few days since to amend the Journal.

A message from the Council of Revision was received, by Mr. McLean, their Secretary, which is as follows:

Mr. Speaker: The Council have had under consideration "An act to create and organize the county of Scott," and return the same as improper to become a law, for the following reasons;

The tenth section of the act declares that "all bonds, notes, or subscriptions that have been or may be executed, for the purpose of building public buildings in the town of Winchester, made payable to the president and trustees of the town of Winchester, or any other person, are hereby declared valid, and may be sued on and collected by law." This provision is clearly retrospective in its operation so far as it relates to contracts heretofore made; and, therefore, in our opinion, unwise and impolitic, and calculated to lead to great injustice and oppression. We do not say that every retrospective law is necessarily an ex post facto law, and, consequently, in violation of the constitution; but that the principle upon which such laws are founded is a dangerous one, and ought to be resorted to with great caution. As much evil may result from a law giving legal effect to anterior promises or contracts, which, at the time they were entered into, were not obligatory, and the fulfilment of which the party knew rested in his discretion, as would flow from a law making an act penal which was innocent at the time of its commission, and only made criminal by the subsequent law. The Council have no knowledge of the nature or extent of the contracts which have been made for the erection of public buildings, to which this act proposes to give a legal sanction, but many contracts may be readily imagined which would come within its provisions, that policy and justice would alike forbid should be enforced; such, for example, as a promise made by a married woman, or by an infant. Even the contracts of an idiot and lunatics are not exempt from the binding operation of this law, nor are those excepted. The consequences, then, which might probably flow from such a provision, seem so apparent that further illustration is not deemed necessary to show the impropriety thereof.

THOS. CARLIN,
TH. C. BROWNE,
THEO'S W. SMITH,
WM. WILSON.

And he withdrew.

The Council of Revision have had under consideration "An act to vacate the plat of the town of Savannah, in Iroquois county," and return the same as improper to become a law; because, while it is not their desire to dispute the expediency of the passage of the act, if there are owners of property in this town, other than the original proprietors, they have necessarily acquired rights of which they cannot be divested by legislative action. As the Council have no evidence to the contrary, they think it a fair presumption that there are other owners than the original proprietors of the town; and they would respectfully suggest that the act should be so amended as not to interfere with rights thus acquired. The objects of the act can be accomplished by adding a proviso making the vacation of the town plat depend on the assent of such owners.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1839.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

The following message was received from the Council of Revision, by Mr. McLean, their Secretary:

"The Council of Revision have had under consideration the 'Act supplemental to an act, entitled 'An act for the limitation of actions and for avoiding vexatious law suits,' and return the same to the House of Representatives, because the Council are of opinion that the following clause of the first section, to wit: 'without notice of the title of the person having right of entry, or cause of action,' is calculated to defeat the highly beneficial object the Legislature had in view in passing the act. The Legislature doubtless intended to prevent a dormant title from being asserted, by entry or suit, after the possessor of lands, under color of title, has spent many years of his life in making valuable improvements on the land, and thereby greatly enhancing its value. The circumstance that the possessor of land having, as he supposes, a good title, has notice of the dormant claim of another, does make no difference. The injury produced by delay in bringing an action is the same whether the possessor has, or has not, notice of an adverse title. It should be the object of the law to protect the vigilant, and not the sleeper, on his rights. It is upon this principle that all statutes of limitations are based. The Council also object to the bill, because its language gives it a retrospective, instead of a prospective, operation.

The Council, in returning the bill have no other object than to have it so amended as completely effectuate what they consider a very important and useful change in our limitation laws. The beneficial operation of a law, which shall stimulate the owners of real estate to bring forward and assert their titles, when there are conflicting claims, and to offer inducements to the prompt payment of taxes, cannot be doubted.

SAMUEL D. LOCKWOOD,
THOS. C. BROWNE,

A message from the Council of Revision, by Mr. McLean, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Council of Revision have had under consideration "An act regulating evidence in certain cases," and return the same as improper to become a law, because of the ambiguity existing in the first section of the act. It declares that, in the actions to which this section relates, "the names and description of the plaintiffs shall be presumed to have been correctly set forth in the writ or summons." This phraseology is so extremely loose, that, in the opinion of the Council, it would be extremely difficult for a court to decide in what cases it might not apply, however gross the omissions or misdescriptions might be. Indeed, it is extremely difficult to imagine to what particular cases the provision is intended to apply, and, for that cause, is deemed exceptionable. The great want of the necessary certainty, which should characterize legislative acts, is so apparent that they cannot but believe the ground of objection will be concurred in and removed. To avoid looseness and irregularities in legal proceedings, the particular defect intended to be legalized should be specified with certainty; otherwise the difficulty intended to be remedied may be increased, and the objection intended to be obviated only increased.

THOMAS CARLIN,
SAMUEL D. LOCKWOOD,
THEO'S W. SMITH,
THO. C. BROWNE.

And he withdrew.

On motion of Mr. Elkin,

The foregoing message, together with the bill for "An act regulating evidence in certain cases," was afterwards taken up.

"SEC. 1. In trials of actions upon contracts, express or implied, where the action is brought by partners, or by joint payees or obligees, it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff, in order to maintain any such action, to prove the names of the copartners, or the christian names of such joint payees or obligees; but the names of such copartners, joint payees or obligees, shall be presumed to be truly set forth in the declaration or petition: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent the defendant in any such action from pleading, in abatement as heretofore, or of proving on the trial, either that more persons ought to have been plaintiffs, or that more persons have been made plaintiffs, than have a legal right to sue."

The bill, as amended, was then repassed.

Ordered, That the title be as aforesaid, that the Clerk carry said bill to the Senate, together with the objections of the Council of Revision, and ask the concurrence of the Senate in the repassage thereof, as amended.

A message from the Council of Revision, by Mr. McLean, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Council of Revision have had under consideration "An act to authorize the Governor to appoint bank directors," and return the same to the House of Representatives as improper to become a law of this State, because, by the "Act to increase the capital stock of certain banks, and to provide means to pay the interest on a loan authorized by an act, entitled 'An act to establish and maintain a general system of internal improvements,' passed March 4, 1837;" and the acceptance by the State Bank, and the Bank of Illinois at Shawneetown, of the terms proposed in the said act—the act and all its provisions became a contract with said banks respectively. The alteration contained in the bill under consideration, in the mode of appointing directors to these institutions without the consent of the banks, is consequently a violation of their chartered rights, and of the constitution of the United States. The Council readily concede that the proposed alteration in the mode of appointing directors would be a highly beneficial improvement; yet, without the consent of the banks concerned, the Council believe the Legislature have no power to make the alteration.

Whereas the States on the Atlantic, in common with those of the great interior of the West, feel a deep and common interest in the con-

SEVEN O'CLOCK, P. M.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

On motion of Mr. Craig,

The following resolution was adopted.

Whereas, in the act passed creating the county of Lee from the county of Ogle, at the present session of the Legislature, N. Nichols, of Whiteside county, is named as one of the commissioners to locate the seat of justice for said county, when it should have been E. H. Nichols; therefore,

And also that the bills, reported as correctly enrolled on yesterday and to-day, have been laid before the Council of Revision.

A message from the Council of Revision, by Mr. McLean, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Council of Revision have approved acts of the following titles:

"An act to locate a State road from Nashville to Belleville;"

"An act extending the time to the Springfield and Alton Turnpike Road Company to complete said road;"

"An act for the relief of Andrew Cochran and others;"

"An act to establish a State road from Joseph Huey's, in Clinton county to the northeast corner of Fayette county;

"An act to authorize the sale of the saline lands in Bond county;"

"An act to incorporate the Greene County Mutual Fire Insurance Company;"

"An act to incorporate the Warren County Male and Female Seminary;"

"An act to incorporate the Genesee Manual Labor High School;" and

"An act to provide for a relocation of a road therein named."

They have returned three several acts with their objections thereto, as follows:

The Council of Revision have had under consideration "An act making the office of school commissioner elective by the people," and return the same as improper to become a law, because the fifth section of the act repeals all laws and parts of laws authorizing the county commissioners to appoint school commissioners. This provision repeals the law creating the office of school commissioner, and, consequently takes from the present incumbents their powers as commissioners, and leaves an interregnum in the office, from the passage of the law until the first Monday in August next. This would probably be attended with injurious consequences, as the commissioners have important duties to perform, and some of them at short intervals.

They have also had under consideration "An act to amend the several acts concerning administrators and executors," and return the same as improper to become a law, for the following reasons: By authorizing an administrator or executor, appointed in another State, to sue for and receive debts due his testator or intestate in this State, without taking out letters of administration or giving security for the application of the money, it enables such executor, &c., to get possession of the proceeds of an estate, without heirs or creditors having any security for the proper application of the money so received. Another objection is, that where no administrator or executor resides in this State, the creditors of the deceased residing in this State have no one against whom they can legally assert their demand; while the debtors of the deceased are liable to be sued by the foreign executor or administrator. We also object to the power which the act gives to remove apprentices from other States to this State, without their consent, or the consent of their parents or guardians.

The Council also return the "Act concerning the sale of real estate of deceased persons by executors and administrators in settling estates," for the reasons above assigned for the returning the "Act to amend the several acts concerning administrators and apprentices."

WILLIAM WILSON,
THEO'S W. SMITH,
THOMAS C. BROWNE,
SAM'L D. LOCKWOOD.

The amendments of the Senate to the bills from the House of Representatives, entitled "An act to incorporate the seminaries of learning therein named;" and "An act for the improvement of the Little Wabash river, and for other purposes," were severally taken up, read, and concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate thereof.

The message of the Senate, refusing to concur in the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relating to the duties of county commissioners," was taken up; when,

On motion of Mr. Murphy of Vermilion,

The House receded from its amendments.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate thereof.

"An act concerning the school fund in township 13 north, of range 8 west;"

"An act changing the name of the town of Florence, in White county;" and

"An act to incorporate the seminaries of learning therein named;"

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Bond, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate have concurred with them in the adoption of the resolution from the House authorizing the Secretary of State to strike out the words "fifty fifth," and insert the words "forty-fifth," in the 12th section of an act therein mentioned.

They have also concurred with them in the adoption of the joint resolution adjourning this General Assembly on the fourth of March, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

They have also adopted the resolution from the House of Representatives, authorizing the Secretary of State to insert the name of E. H. Nichols, instead of N. Nichols, in an act therein named.

They have concurred with the House of Representatives in their amendments to the bill from the Senate for "An act to authorize the reprinting of certain laws of this State."

They have also concurred with them in the passage of a bill from the House of Representatives, entitled "An act to establish a company for manufactures."

They have also concurred with them in their amendments to the Senate bill, entitled "An act to improve the navigation of Spoon river."

And he withdrew.

The bills, entitled "An act to amend the several acts concerning administrators and apprentices;" and "An act concerning the sale of real estate of deceased persons by executors and administrators in settling estates," together with the objections of the Council of Revision thereto, were taken up, and,

On motion of Murphy of Vermilion,

Laid on the table.

The bill, entitled "An act making the office of school commissioner elective by the people," together with the objections of the Council of Revision thereto, was taken up.

Mr. Hardin moved to lay them on the table; which was not agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Moore,

They were referred to a select committee.

Ordered, That Messrs. Moore, R. Smith, and Hardin, be that committee.

Mr. Moore afterwards moved to dispense with the rule, and receive a report from the said select committee; which was objected to.

The question was taken thereon, by yeas and nays, as follow, on the call of Messrs. Marshall and Murphy of Cook.

Those who voted in the affirmative, are,

Allen of Franklin, Allen of Greene, Brown, Carpenter, Churchill, Cloud, Compher, Cunningham, Daley, Dunn, Edmonston, Fisk, Foster, Gouge, Green of Clay, Green of Greene, Hankins, Happy, Hardin, Harris, Huey, Johnson, Kent, Kerr, McWilliams, Menard, Moore, Rawalt, Read, Robinson, Roman, Smith of Wabash, Robert Smith, Thomas of McLean, Thomas of St. Clair, Walker of Vermilion, Williams, and Mr. Speaker—38.

Messrs. Aldrich, Archer, Craig, Dawson, Dubois, Gilham, Henderson, Henry, Holmes, Hull, Kercheval, McCutchen, Marshall, Murphy of Cook, Murphy of Vermilion, Otwell, Pace, George Smith, Thornton, and Wood—20.

There being no quorum voting, the question was not decided.

And then the House adjourned until Monday, 4th March, 1839, at 8 o'clock, A. M.

MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1839.

EIGHT O'CLOCK, A. M.

Mr. Crain, from the committee on Engrossed Bills, reported, as correctly engrossed, a bill, entitled "An act to authorize Elizabeth Middleton to keep a ferry across the Kaskaskia river, on section 16, in township 1 south, range 5 west, and for other purposes."

A message from the Council of Revision, by Mr. Archer, a member of the House of Representatives:
